PRE-PUJA POUNDING

● 10 dead as Kolkata gets 251.4 mm of rain in less than 24 hours ● 90 flights cancelled, many more delayed ● More rain in the offing: IMD

AGENCIES @ Kolkata

TORRENTIAL overnight rain, the heaviest in nearly four decades, battered Kolkata and its adjoining districts on Tuesday, claiming at least 10 lives — nine from electrocution — besides paralysing the city.

The deluge, recording 251.4 mm in under 24 hours, was the highest since 1986 and the sixth-highest single-day rainfall in 137 years, as per the India Meteorological Department (IMD).

For lakhs of residents, Tuesday dawned to a city under siege by water. In south Kolkata's Garia and Jodhpur Park, residents were unpleasantly surprised to find knee-to-waist-deep water in living rooms, ground floors and shops.

Motorcycles and cars bobbed like abandoned boats, buses broke down mid-way, and commuters trudged barefoot through filthy floodwaters clutching their belongings over their heads.

"I had to walk three kilometres in waist-deep water from Lake Gardens to Rashbehari Avenue. I don't know how I will get back home," said office-goer Rupa Chatterjee.

The downpour disrupted Metro and train services, and threw air travel into chaos, with 90 flights cancelled and over 90 delayed. Educational institutions were shut, while Puja holidays were advanced to September 24.

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee blamed poor dredging of Farakka barrage and lapses by power utility CESC for the deaths.

MINISTRIES TASKED WITH DISASTER MANAGEMENT

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

IN a bid to effectively manage disasters and reduce casualties, the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) has designated specific ministries and departments for disaster monitoring, early warning, prevention, mitigation and preparedness.

Who gets to do what

- Defence ministry: Avalanche, oil spills
- Health ministry: Biological disasters
- Earth Sciences: Early warning for heat waves, lightning, tsunamis, hailstorms, heavy rainfall
- Agriculture: Frost, cold waves, drought, hailstorms and pest attacks
- Jal Shakti: Floods, glacial lake outburst
- Housing & Urban Affairs: Urban flood
- Environment: Forest fires, industrial & chemical disasters
- Atomic Energy: Nuclear, radiological emergencies

The notification signed by Joint Secretary Rajesh Gupta, formalises a coordinated disaster management framework across the country, ensuring that ministries are accountable for doing the required jobs specific to various natural and man-made hazards.

According to the notification, the Ministry of Defence will be the nodal agency to deal with avalanches and oil spills, while the Ministry of Earth Sciences will provide early warning for cold wave, cyclone, tornado, earthquake, heat wave, lightning, tsunami, hail storm, and heavy rainfall.

The Ministry of Health and Family Welfare has been asked to manage biological disasters, while the Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare has got the responsibility of frost and cold wave, drought, hailstorm, and pest attack. The Ministry of Jal Shakti will handle floods and glacial lake outburst flood, whereas the Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs will take care of urban floods (except early warning).

The Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change has been given the responsibility for forest fire, industrial and chemical disasters. The Ministry of Mines will handle landslides and the Department of Atomic Energy will take care of nuclear and radiological emergencies.

I thought that (ending Ukraine war) was going to be the easiest one but you know in war, you never know what's going to happen. There are always lots of surprises, both good and bad

Even NATO countries have not cut off Russian energy products. Europe has to step it up. They must immediately cease all energy purchases from Russia. Else, we're all wasting a lot of time

China & India 'primary funders' of war: Trump

Says he's ready to impose harsh tariffs on Russia to end the Ukraine war if the EU joins in with the exact same measures, in UN speech

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

IN a blistering address at the United Nations General Assembly on Tuesday, US President Donald Trump accused India and China of being the "primary funders" of Russia's "war" in Ukraine through continued oil purchases, while slamming the European Union and NATO for their "embarrassing" inaction, and warning of economic retaliation.

"The only question now is how many more lives would be needlessly lost on both sides. China and India are the primary funders of the ongoing war by continuing to purchase Russian oil," Trump said from the UN podium during his second-term debut at the General Assembly. He broadened his criticism beyond Asia, saying that "even NATO countries have not cut off Russian energy products," terming their inaction "embarrassing" and self-defeating.

Trump also issued a direct threat of economic retaliation. "To end the war, the US is fully prepared to impose a very strong round of powerful tariffs which would stop the bloodshed very quickly," he said.

Reiterating a familiar claim, Trump added: "This war would never have started if I were President when it began."

Trump issued another direct warning to Washington's allies. "Europe has to step it up. They must immediately cease all energy purchases from Russia. Otherwise, we're all wasting a lot of time."

On Ukraine, Trump offered no new peace proposal but leaned heavily on his past rapport with Russian President Vladimir Putin. "In war, you never know what's going to happen. But this was supposed to be a quick little skirmish. The fact that it has dragged on makes Russia look bad, not good."

The speech signals a renewed push to isolate Moscow economically and a warning that nations continuing business with Russia will face rising costs, diplomatic or otherwise.

The remarks come just weeks after the Trump administration imposed a punitive 25% tariff hike on India's Russian oil-linked imports, bringing total duties to 50% on key products — the highest levied by the US on a partner.

It raised concerns in New Delhi, which has maintained that its purchases serve national and economic interests. "We're fully prepared to impose a very strong round of powerful tariffs on Russia if they are not ready to make a deal," Trump said. "But for those tariffs to be effective, European nations must join us in adopting the exact same measures."

Trump also touted his diplomatic record, claiming his administration helped resolve seven long-standing international conflicts, including that between India and Pakistan.

Let vehicles through Wipro campus, CM requests Premji

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TO curb severe traffic congestion at Iblur Junction on the Outer Ring Road (ORR), Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has sought permission from IT major Wipro to permit limited vehicular movement through its campus.

In a letter dated September 19, the CM wrote to Wipro Founder Chairman Azim Premji, stating that preliminary assessments by traffic and urban mobility experts indicate that if Wipro opens its campus to vehicular movement, it could reduce traffic on its adjoining stretches by 30%, particularly during peak office hours.

"One of the key challenges currently facing Bengaluru, particularly along the ORR corridor at Iblur Junction, is severe traffic congestion during peak hours, which adversely impacts mobility, productivity and the quality of urban life", Siddaramaiah said, requesting the IT giant to allow vehicle movement through its campus subject to mutually agreed terms and necessary security considerations.

Bengaluru Traffic Police's ASTram (Actionable Intelligence for Sustainable Traffic Management), in its study report, claimed that the Wipro Link Road will reduce traffic by 30% and decongest ORR traffic. P4

HC stays move to cap movie tickets at ₹200

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday stayed the Karnataka Cinemas (Regulation) (Amendment) Rules, 2025, issued by the state government, fixing a Rs 200 cap on cinema tickets.

Justice Ravi V Hosmani pronounced the operative portion of the interim order of stay, which was reserved after hearing a batch of petitions filed by Hombale Films, Multiplex Association of India and others questioning the impugned Rules dated September 12, 2025, issued by the state government.

The petitioners contended that the impugned rules are arbitrary and contrary to the Karnataka Cinemas (Regulation) Act, 1964. There can't be a direction to fix the price of the ticket since they have spent money on movie halls. There is no provision under the Act. The cost of land and the cost of building in Bengaluru are more than 10 times that of tier-2 and tier-3 cities.

Earlier, in 2017, a similar government order was issued, and the same was withdrawn consciously, they claimed. P7

FAREWELL 'DICKIE' BIRD

Gold standard of umpiring accuracy, integrity

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

IN a non-third umpire era he was a legend. Harold 'Dickie' Bird was the gold standard for accuracy of decisions and considered a man of great integrity. Players respected him and never doubted his judgement. His popularity ran beyond cricket as he was a favourite of spectators as well.

It all will now be part of fond memories as Bird passed away on Tuesday at the age of 92. The former Yorkshire cricketer officiated in 66 Tests and 69 ODIs. The Englishman officiated in the three World Cup finals including the 1983 summit clash where India shocked the mighty West Indies to lift the trophy.

Syed Kirmani, former Indian wicketkeeper-batter, was part of the winning squad captained by Kapil Dev. Condoling the demise, 75-year-old Kirmani said Bird was the world's best umpire in their time and era. "He was very straight forward and genuine," Kirmani told this daily. Incidentally Bird's last Test was the 1996 Lord's match between India and England in which former captains Sourav Ganguly and Rahul Dravid made their debut.

Kirmani shared an interesting anecdote involving Bird. "During the 1983 WC final, when Ballu (Balwinder Sandhu) came out to bat, he was the last man and I was at the non-striker's end. Malcolm Marshall bowled a bouncer to Ballu and it hit him on his helmet, so Bird fired the hell out of the legendary West Indies pacer. The umpire made him apologise to Ballu. He brought Marshall to Ballu and I was there by then as I had run up to Ballu to ask if he was feeling alright as he was rubbing the helmet. I asked him to take his helmet out. In the meantime, Bird brought Marshall to Ballu. He then said 'say sorry to Ballu'. And Marshall said 'Oh maan, I didn't mean to hit you'.' Kirmani also said that Bird used to trust him a lot and even sought his advice before reaching a decision.

DKS: Even road near PM's residence has potholes

'Potholes a national problem, but only state's issues highlighted'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister DK Shivakumar said that while potholes are a problem across the country, including the road where the Prime Minister's residence is located in New Delhi, only Bengaluru pothole issue was being blown out of proportion.

Speaking to reporters at his Sadashivanagar residence on Tuesday, the DCM said that he had travelled around New Delhi just a day ago. "The media must review and report how many potholes are there on Delhi's roads including the road to PM's residence. Potholes are a problem across the country. Only Karnataka's issues are being blown out of proportion. I would like to tell everyone, including the big businesses in Bengaluru, that we are doing our job of filling potholes," he said.

He added, "We are filling about 200 potholes in each of the five corporations adding up to a total of 1,000 potholes per day. Officials and workers are working amidst the rains too."

Shivakumar also blamed the pothole mess on the previous BJP regime between 2019 and 2023. "If the roads had been maintained well from the BJP's tenure, we would not have reached this stage. They did not bother to do anything to fix the potholes, but now they are raising this issue as the elections are approaching," he said.

Meanwhile, the municipal corporations across the city are working day and night to meet the pothole filling deadline of October 31 set by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah.

BMRCL orders immediate debris clearance to ease traffic

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) directed all contractors and project supervisors to immediately clear debris, junk, and leftover construction material after work completion, in a bid to ease traffic congestion and ensure public safety.

In a circular, BMRCL said debris, temporary barricades, and packing material must be removed without delay, once construction activity concludes. Contractors are required to restore the road carriageway and footpaths to their original condition, including pavement level, camber, and drainage, to prevent waterlogging and ensure smooth movement for vehicles and pedestrians.

Site engineers and inspectors have been tasked with monitoring the clearance process and certifying that roads are restored to their full width. Safety officers must also ensure safe passage for vehicles and pedestrians, both during and after work.

The circular mandates that potholes noticed during Metro work should be rectified immediately. Debris along medians or below viaducts must also be cleared without delay. Work and clearance should be scheduled during non-peak hours wherever possible, with prior intimation to traffic police in case of diversions.

The circular also warns that compliance will be strictly monitored by the engineer-in-charge. Exceptions will only be allowed under unavoidable circumstances such as heavy rain, and only with written approval.

'If opened to traffic, Wipro campus road will reduce travel time by 38%'

ACCORDING to ASTram, several major tech parks, including Wipro, RMZ Ecoworld, RMZ Ecospace, RGA Tech Park, Global Technology Park, Embassy TechVillage, Prestige Tech Park, and Pritech Park SEZ, are located along Sarjapur Road and the ORR, contributing to peak-hour traffic congestion in the corridor. It identified that the high volume of commuter and service vehicle trips converging on Iblur from Sarjapur Road to reach ORR causes severe congestion, reduced travel speeds, long delays at critical junctions, and spillback onto connecting roads, adversely impacting overall network performance and commuter experience. Heavy congestion observed at the Iblur Junction is due to the majority of Sarjapur to ORR motorists using the Iblur-Kadubeesanahalli route, and the congestion spillback extends along Sarjapur Road up to Wipro Junction, according to the report, and the proposed intervention was the opening of Wipro Campus Road as an alternative link from Sarjapur Road to ORR via Wipro and Ecoworld campus. It said that if the Wipro campus road is opened for traffic, it will reduce the travel time by 38% from the existing 35 minutes to 21.5 minutes by increasing the average speed. Around 2,000 vehicles experience approximately 14 minutes of savings each, constituting to 470 vehicle-hours saved per peak period. The report said these savings are in addition to indirect benefits from decongestion at Iblur and along Sarjapur Road. Greater Bengaluru IT Companies & Industries Association General Secretary Krishna Kumar Gowda welcomed the CMs proposal to allow limited vehicular movement through the Wipro campus.

FOREST MIN WRITES TO PCCF OVER STAFF IN GBA WANTING TO MOVE OUT

MOHAMMED YACOOB
@ Bengaluru

THE forest department officials of Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) have expressed deep displeasure over ill-treatment at the hands of municipal and police officials, and facing FIRs whenever there is a tree fall incident resulting in casualty and property damage.

Forest minister Eshwar Khandre has written to Principal Chief Conservator of Forest (PCCF) to look into the issue.

The minister has contended that due to alleged harassment like the filing of FIRs in connection with tree fall incidents, forest officials working under the GBA on deputation, are feeling demoralized.

"Sometimes the police threaten to file FIR if their palms are not greased. All this is harassment," said a senior forest staff in the GBA.

A lack of clarity

The department staff have told the minister that now that the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) is split into five corporations and the required staff will be doubled, there is still no clarity on the role of Deputy Conservator of Forest (DCF) and Assistant Conservator of Forest (ACF), and Range Forest Officers who are on Cadre and Recruitment Rules with definite role like overall supervision and countersigning authority, filing FIR and chargesheet and seizing of materials and rescue of wildlife.

Earlier 14 Deputy Range Forest Officers who served in the previous corporation, BBMP, were not under any such rules and still managed to draw salaries from 2009 to till the split. Two officials have gone back to the forest department, and others have now been placed under different corporations under the GBA, as rules have been framed.

The duties of a DCF or Forest Officer is tree canopy maintenance, implementation of rules through registration of FIRs against tree cutting without permission, compounding (seizing), and counter-signing, that is, signature on files for payments and other fund allocations. However, all these aspects lack clarity under the GBA.

"In case, DCF remains in the GBA and the ACF or RFO is given authority to check for permission for tree cutting for projects in new corporation, there could be gross error and officials could make mistakes, hence all powers and forest related operations have to be either centralised or moved to Karnataka Forest Department," said a senior forest officer.

Body flags spike in BMTC mishaps, demands reforms

ENS @ Bengaluru

POOR road conditions, rising traffic congestion, and mounting pressure on drivers are cited as key causes for the recent spike in accidents involving BMTC buses by the KSRTC Staff and Workers Federation.

In a letter to Transport Minister Ramalinga Reddy, the federation demanded his immediate intervention to stop accidents. It pointed out that many Bengaluru roads remain pothole-ridden, despite court interventions and late-night inspections by DCM DK Shivakumar. Several widened stretches have been dug up and left unattended for years, forcing drivers to operate under stress. Failure to complete scheduled trips attracts penalties, adding to the pressure. The long demanded request for Form 4, which assigns timings for each route, to be prepared scientifically, has allegedly been ignored. They also allege accidents involving leased EV buses are particularly high. Unlike BMTC's directly recruited drivers, private drivers of leased buses are neither bound by eligibility standards nor accountable to BMTC.

Incidents of misconduct in leased buses are rising. BMTC lacks authority to act against such drivers. Though training programmes have been introduced, the federation calls this a delayed response and demands reforms.

Meanwhile, it also welcomed the state government's decision to constitute a Public Transport Fare Regulatory Committee, calling it a long-pending demand first raised before earlier panels.

DIRTY CITY

Shaw slams GBA for filth in B'luru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AFTER her 'best talent, best weather and worst infrastructure' remark, her call to fix Outer Ring Road, and her criticism against shoddily finished footpaths, Biocon Founder Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw has slammed the GBA (formerly BBMP) this time for its incompetence in keeping the city clean.

In a social media post on Tuesday, she said, "A combination of lack of civic sense and the incompetence of @bbmp in managing city garbage and debris has made our city filthy."

While calling upon citizens to cooperate by not dumping garbage and creating ugly dark spots, she also batted for better equipment and training to be given to pourakarmikas to keep the city clean. She said the zonal commissioners need to take ownership of Solid Waste Management.

As soon as she posted the message, there were many who agreed with the Biocon founder mentioning that the blackspots were getting worse, and that without proper garbage collection, citizens had no option but to throw away waste.

PETER VIDAL

24TH September : Yesterday I mentioned the possibility of a comet or asteroid colliding with the Earth. One of the reasons this is so unlikely is that the giant planet Jupiter acts as a sort of cosmic vacuum cleaner. Its enormous gravitational pull picks up such rogue lumps of rock before they come anywhere near us.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Today's planetary picture is best viewed as neither good nor bad, but neutral, bringing a turning point in your creative and romantic affairs. Which way you move is entirely up to you, so think ahead. But if you're going to make it at work you must have your colleagues' full support.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
I have spoken before about the potential for substantial improvements in your home, personal and family affairs. Today's stars bring a major shift forward, and you may soon be set free from a pressing responsibility. And that just has to be welcome news!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Keep an eye out for mistaken instructions and lost directions. Interviews and discussions could be muddled, short journeys could lead to unexpected destinations. Tread carefully around all legal delicacies and make sure that you explain yourself properly. Then everything will work out just fine.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Today's the day to sow fertile seeds for future prosperity. If you don't find any loose change in the street, at least you can gear your investments up for a future breakthrough. Don't put all your eggs in the same basket, though, or you risk losing everything.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
It's been a few years since we saw planetary alignments like the ones that are building up now. You may be buffeted by celestial storms, but that's all the more reason you need to wrap up well, metaphorically speaking, before you go out. The more protected you are, the better.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Only the highest standards will do, and I must ask you to be a saint. The stars are threatening to undermine your confidence, but if you are sincere, loving, dutiful and self-sacrificing, you will dodge all negative planetary patterns, attract respect and enhance your reputation.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You have your share of responsibility but, if you wish, you may make personal pleasure and creative satisfaction your principle priority. It's all a matter of seeing that partners take responsibility for themselves, and don't expect you to wait on them hand and foot.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You may switch into top gear at work and keep your eye on the road ahead. Watch out for cul-de-sacs and blind alleys, otherwise you'll waste a great deal of time and squander your energy. Keep out of the way if partners are in a china-smashing mood.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Overseas and long-distance influences are growing stronger. This is obviously significant if you're travelling, for you may meet much more than you've bargained for. And if you're at home, there must still be some way to bring an adventurous angle into your life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Material security does seem to be a crucial issue, although perhaps not as much as it will be after another two months have passed. It all boils down to the need to increase your cash-flow, but also to be certain that you make the best possible use of your assets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It's a day of extremes and it's difficult to see whether you will achieve a major romantic breakthrough or run headlong into an emotional conflict. You must pick and choose your companions with great care, and don't let anyone else make up your mind for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Venus, planet of love, is now your ally. You may therefore move into a commanding position in all emotional and romantic affairs. Keep a weather eye open for hysterical colleagues at work, by the way, and use the same soothing charms on them as you would with friends.

SIT, the new norm to probe 'important' cases in K'taka

Teams come under spotlight & pressure, say retired police officers

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE State government has constituted a Special Investigation Team (SIT) to investigate the 2023 alleged voter theft case at the Aland Assembly in Kalaburagi. The case was being investigated by the CID after an FIR was registered by the Electoral Registration Officer, Aland in February 2023 till it was handed over to SIT last weekend.

The constitution of SIT to investigate complex, 'sensitive' and 'politically important' cases is not new to this government, but the 'trend' of rolling out a team of officers to investigate every such case is a setback to the mandate and sanctity of the CID, which was created as a niche investigating wing (then Corps of Detectives) of the Karnataka police.

The concept of an SIT was rolled out in the mid and late 90s for very few and selective cases. The objective was to cull out a team of police officers and task them with special investigation, away from their regular duties of law and order till the completion of the investigation. SIT, the setting up of which is the government's prerogative, has now become a routine affair.

"Officers are handpicked for various reasons such as domain knowledge, expertise, knack of investigation, track record. Trust plays a major role in cherry-picking the team," said some retired police officers, who didn't wish to be named.

"It also puts the team under the spotlight and pressure, and in extremely sensitive cases, it can be a test of their integrity. Investigation is a subtle art but requires a certain aptitude and courage to make it a fool-proof case that can withstand the scrutiny of the courts," they added.

The CID was set up in 1974 to investigate "important major cases, economic and financial offences which would require special knowledge of law and investigation and achieve maximum result in crimes detection, thereby instilling confidence and good faith among the public in police". CID has undergone major changes; from 2009 to now, from its nomenclature to its organisational set-up, leadership, training and specialisation, mostly in dealing with specialised crimes like cyber, economic offences, etc.

"Constituting an SIT for every such case that the government perceives as sensitive or carrying political heft is also reflective of the government's loss of faith in the institution; in this case, the police, especially the CID and trust in select few. This not only puts pressure on the latter as they begin to be looked at differently by their own colleagues; it will also have a cascading impact, resulting in loss of morale in the rest of the cadre. Police are the face of the government. It should help strengthen and restore its image, which has been built over the decades under the vision and guidance of senior police officers from the Indian Police Service (IPS) and the state cadre," they added.

AEE targeting us for builder complaint: Residents

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

WHITEFIELD residents have alleged that they are being harassed by the Assistant Executive Engineer (AEE) of Whitefield Subdivision, Gururaj, after they complained against an AP-based builder for constructing illegal floors for commercial purposes in residential areas.

A resident, Usha Raghavan, said, "Four residents have been harassed by officials instead of checking and stopping illegal buildings belonging to Puligadda Srinivasa Rao and Murali Govindarajulu. The owners came to build residential homes and got the plan sanctioned. But there are deviations and they have also added unauthorised floors at Nallur Halli village of Hagadur ward in Mahadevapura. The matter was brought to the notice of officials six months ago. But, the engineer and team have issued notice to the complainants." She said, "The AEE came with a team and gave notices under Sections 313 and 248 (1) and (2) (for building violation). I have been staying here for the last 25 years. Still, I got notice based on false complaints. The AEE did not show the same intent in acting against the violators in a genuine case."

The issue escalated to KN Ramesh when he was the Zonal Commissioner, Mahadevapura, before BBMP was split. "The official termed the notice against me harassment and asked officials to close the file before he was shifted as commissioner to Bengaluru South City Corporation," said Usha. AEE Gururaj was not available for comment.

The building that has violated norms, allege residents in Whitefield | EXPRESS

Another resident from ECC Road, which has 15 houses in Whitefield in Hoodi, complained about a six-floor building that has come up with violations. The officials, instead of taking action, sent notices against the four residents who complained about commercial buildings. They said they are being harassed by AEE and also planning department officials of Bengaluru East City Corporation.

"The IT belt residents will soon launch a campaign against bad governance and harassment and approach Rahul Gandhi and tell him we made a big mistake by electing your leaders," said a senior citizen who received a notice. "Instead of taking action against illegal structures that have 100-200% visible violations, the officials are allowing the constructions to go on," said Sandeep Anirudhan, a civic activist.

AP man held in Whitefield for stealing 20 bikes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A 24-year-old car driver from Andhra Pradesh who was stealing two-wheelers for his father's cancer treatment has been arrested by the Whitefield police. The police have recovered 20 stolen bikes worth around Rs 20 lakhs from him. The accused B Firoz is from Kadiri Mandal in Anantapur district in Andhra Pradesh. He was residing with his wife and a child in Whitefield. Firoz's father, Mohammed Basha, who was suffering from cancer, was staying in Kadiri.

Firoz was unable to arrange money for his father's treatment. He then stole a two-wheeler and sold it. He then made this a full-time profession. Due to the rise in two-wheeler thefts, certain shop owners installed CCTVs, which helped the police to apprehend him. The accused had stolen a two-wheeler behind the ITPL Main Gate, and its owner had filed a complaint on September 6. The police arrested Firoz at Kottur Village in Hosakote. The accused had sold five two-wheelers in Maddur, had given nine two-wheelers to his relatives of Kadiri Mandal and had parked six two-wheelers in a vacant plot in Whitefield.

Accused sought ₹5-10L for fake certificates

WHILE the candidates had not opted for PH quota while initially applying for medical seats, they later applied during the online revision process, claiming to have hearing impairment.

As per KEA rules, the candidates were sent to Victoria Hospital and NIMHANS on July 17 to undergo an audiogram and BERA (Brainstem Auditory Evoked Response) test. Doctors later found that the audiological evaluation reports submitted by the candidates were not authentic. Following this, KEA issued notices to 21 candidates to submit documents. Three parents appeared and revealed that four men had provided them with fake certificates. Based on this, a KEA administrative officer filed a complaint against 24 people, including 21 students, on September 8. Police Inspector BR Jagadish and his team began the probe and identified as Bharmappa as the kingpin of the racket. "A native of Chitradurga, he had connections with Sudhakar and Umesh, and together they forged documents and, on a commission basis, obtained doctors' signatures for fake PH certificates. Bharmappa had assured other teachers that he could secure NEET seats for their children and also approached other parents through his connections, promising to get medical seats. The accused demanded Rs 5–10 lakh and had collected between Rs 2–5 lakh as advance," an officer said.

He added that five more people, including government doctors, are also involved. It is learnt that it is unlikely to initiate action against students, as their careers would be affected.

Activist Thimarodi externed to Raichur for 1 yr

ENS @ Mangaluru

ACTIVIST Mahesh Shetty Thimarodi has been externed to Raichur district for a period of one year by the Dakshina Kannada district administration. Based on a report by the Bantwal DySP, Puttur Division Assistant Commissioner Stella Varghese issued the externment order on September 18.

The process of externment, in connection with 21 cases registered against Thimarodi by the Belthangady police, was initiated on May 11 by Bantwal DySP. Thimarodi was among the 36 persons against whom externment process was issued to maintain law and order in the district. In the report, the district police had referred to multiple fresh cases booked against Thimarodi during the pendency of proceedings and the need for his externment to maintain law and order. When the process of his externment was underway, four more cases were registered by the Belthangady police. Thimarodi, who is part of the Sowjanya campaign, had allegedly provided shelter to the complainant, a former sanitation worker, in the alleged mass burial case in Dharmasthala. The witness-complainant is now in judicial custody for perjury in Shivamogga.

During SIT searches at Thimarodi's house, a gun and weapons were found. Despite two notices issued against him, he failed to appear for the questioning and even has applied for anticipatory bail.

Meanwhile, the SIT questioned one of the close aides of Thimarodi, Ganesh, in connection with the alleged funding to the key complainant. The complainant had allegedly received up to Rs 3.5 lakh from various accounts, some of them belonging to supporters of Thimarodi. Meanwhile, the 45-year-old complainant recorded a statement under Section 183 before a Belthangady court on Tuesday.

A conspiracy to add these caste names: Chalavadi | Siddaramaiah will finish off Congress, says Siroya | Undue haste in conducting survey, say petitioners

BC commission removes 14 castes with Christian tag from survey

THE Karnataka State Backward Classes Commission has removed 14 castes tagged to Christianity from the Socio, Economic and Educational Survey, also known as the caste survey, which began across the state on Monday.

The commission stated in its official statement on Tuesday that Adi Andhra Christian, Adi Karnataka Christian, Vadda Christian, Valmiki Christian and other such castes have been removed from the survey list.

The decision to remove these castes was taken by the commission at its meeting on Tuesday. "After receiving suggestions, these castes have been removed from the final list. They have also been erased from the enumerators' handbook," it stated.

A delegation of BJP leaders, led by leader of opposition in the Legislative Council Chalavadi Narayanaswamy and V Sunil Kumar, met commission Chairman Madhusudan Naik and urged him not to include these castes in the list. During their meeting, the leaders said that out of 48 castes with the Christian tag, the commission had agreed to remove 33 castes from the survey list, but the remaining 15 too should be erased.

In their memorandum, the BJP leaders stated that the 15 castes from among Scheduled Castes with Christian identity had not been mentioned in the Justice Nagamohan Das Committee survey for internal reservation among Scheduled Castes. The mention of these castes in the caste survey would cause big confusion, the BJP delegation told the commission. Speaking to the media after meeting the commission chairman, Chalavadi Narayanaswamy said such castes had not been mentioned in any of the previous surveys. "Why were they added now? It is all part of a conspiracy. The commission chairman assured us that a decision will be taken today (Tuesday). If they fail to decide, the commission will be responsible for the consequences. That was conveyed to the commission," he added.

There were heated arguments during the meeting as BJP leaders pointed to people being upset over the inclusion of such dual castes in the survey, he added.

Last week, Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot, too, had raised concerns following a representation by a BJP delegation and had written to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, pointing out that the inclusion of castes with the Christian tag would create unrest in society.

CM made everybody unhappy, says BJP MP

ENS @ Bengaluru

BJP Rajya Sabha member Lahar Singh Siroya on Tuesday stated that by ordering a caste census in a tearing hurry, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has made everybody, including his cabinet colleagues, unhappy.

"As of today, the Vokkaligas, the Lingayats, the Dalits, the OBCs, the Brahmins, the minorities, the tribes, and the nomads are upset with the Congress government. The Chief Minister should ask if his own Kuruba community is with him or if they too are upset. Who is really happy with the caste survey is a good question to ask. Perhaps only Rahul Gandhi," the BJP MP stated on X.

The BJP leader said each community has its own grouse against the caste survey, and they are afraid of its final outcome. "Siddaramaiah will finish off the Congress, and there will be nothing really left for DK Shivakumar to take over when the time comes. Anyway, we in the BJP have nothing to complain about all this," he stated, adding that there was no need for a caste survey when the Centre had announced a survey along with the general census, and now Siddaramaiah is caught in a difficult situation.

Petitioners: It is intrusion of privacy; BC panel: No compulsion to reveal data

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday heard petitions challenging the State Government's decision to allow the Karnataka State Backward Classes Commission to conduct the Socio-Economic and Educational Survey (caste survey) and seeking a stay. The statewide survey began on September 22. While the petitioners have claimed before the HC that the ongoing survey is an intrusion of the right to privacy, the commission denied it, saying that Aadhaar card is being used only for identification purposes and there is no compulsion for people to disclose details like caste, religion, etc, to the enumerators.

These arguments and the counter arguments were made before the division bench of Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice C M Joshi, which adjourned the further hearing on the pleas for stay of the survey to Wednesday. The petitions were filed by Rajya Vokkaligara Sangha, Akhila Karnataka Brahmana Mahasabha and others.

To a query by the court about how the Aadhaar card will be used in view of the allegations made by the petitioners, the senior counsel representing the government sid that there is no intrusion of privacy when the data is being collected for policy. On the other hand, the senior counsel representing the commission submitted that they are only using the Aadhaar card for identification and cross-checking of the petitioners whose survey is being conducted. There is no compulsion to disclose caste, religion, etc, he said.

Earlier, the senior counsels representing the petitioners reiterated their arguments that there is no legislative competence for the state to conduct the survey. "The caste data is also part of the census, which can be done only by the Union Government. We don't know the decision of the State Government about the survey done in 2015, spending Rs 150 crore, whether it was accepted or not, but again a survey is being conducted, splurging Rs 420 crore. The collection of data is a violation of the right to privacy, and it cannot be ruled out that the information is collected digitally," they said.

They also argued that the number of castes were 207 in 2002, 1,351 in 2015, and this number has increased to 1,561 in 2025. "There is undue haste in conducting the survey when people were travelling during the Dasara vacation. No application of mind has gone into the entire process. The outsourced electrical meter readers were roped in for the survey, and there is no safeguard as per the Aadhaar Act, and the whole process is likely to lead to a situation where there is no protection of sensitive data. This is an irreversible process. Where is the question of updating data when the 2015 report has not yet seen the light till today," they argued.

Stating that the survey has been mischaracterising the caste census, senior counsel representing the state submitted that this is a social-educational survey to identify backward classes socially and educationally. "Sa*meeksha does*n't mean survey. The obstruction to the survey by the petitioners is a self-serving interest. The state has the power to do. Therefore, Commissions of Havanur, Venkataswamy and Chinnappareddy have done a survey in the past, before the 2015 survey," the senior counsel argued.

He said that when the Union Government can do the survey all-India basis, why there is a bar on the state? "There cannot be a stay for the valid exercise of which the state has power. The petitioners don't want to challenge the decision taken to conduct a survey, but they have challenged the collection of data," he argued.

House panel to review crowd control Bill

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government has constituted a 11-member house committee under the chairmanship of Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara to review the Crowd Control (Managing Crowd at Events and Place of Gathering) Bill, 2025. The committee has been told to submit its report within three months.

The other members of the committee are Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister HK Patil, Congress MLAs Rizwan Arshad, Srinivasaiah N, Ravishankar D, Srinivas V Mane, Prakash K Koliwad, and HD Thammaiah, BJP MLAs V Sunil Kumar and SR Vishwanath, and JDS MLA GD Harish Gowda.

The Bill was introduced by the State Government following the June 4 stampede outside the M Chinnaswamy Stadium in which 11 people were killed. The government was under attack from both the opposition and the public after the stampede.

When the Bill was tabled during the monsoon session of the legislature, last month there was a demand from several legislators to refer it to a house committee for a detailed discussion and scrutiny.

The Bill is aimed at effectively controlling crowds and managing mass gatherings and preventing unlawful gatherings.

The Bill had proposed that the organisers have to execute an indemnity bond of Rs 1 crore at the time of obtaining permission. Unpermitted events or functions are punishable with imprisonment for a minimum of three years and up to seven years, with a fine of up to Rs 1 crore or both.

The proposed Bill also defined "crowd," which means a group of 5,000 people or more gathered for a common purpose or intent. Organisers have to obtain permission from the jurisdictional authority. When the crowd is less than 7,000, the officer in charge of the police station may grant permission.

The Bill also specified that one has to take permission seven days prior to the protest.

The Opposition MLAs had then opined that the Bill could restrict protests and affect cultural and religious events.

Banu's Edeya Hanate sells like hot cakes

BK LAKSHMIKANTHA @ Mysuru

DESPITE the controversy surrounding the invitation extended to International Booker Prize-winning author Banu Mushtaq to inaugurate this year's Mysuru Dasara, her books are among the bestsellers at the ongoing Dasara Book Fair. Bibliophiles thronging the stalls at the fair being held at the Bharat Scouts and Guides Grounds in Mysuru are actively seeking out works by Banu.

Banu's short story collection Edeya Hanate (Heart Lamp), published in 2024 and translated by Deepa Bhasthi, won the International Booker Prize in 2025. The controversy over Banu's invitation and the protests that followed only drew more attention to her works.

Following her inaugural speech stressing unity, Banu's books now share shelf space with literary greats like Poornachandra Tejaswi and Kuvempu at the exhibition-cum-sale, organised by the Department of Kannada and Culture, the Mysuru Dasara Mahotsav Committee, and the Kannada Book Authority. Publishers, including Abhiruchi Prakashana, which brought out Edeya Hanate and its English version, Heart Lamp, have prominently displayed Banu's works.

University of Mysore first division clerk Ravi M, who purchased Edeya Hanate from Veera Loka Books, said, "Banu Mushtaq has brought laurels to Karnataka at the international level. We are delighted that a Kannada writer has won such a prestigious award." Prasanna, a staffer at Kadamba Prakashana, Chamarajpet, said, "Many visitors are inquiring about Banu Mushtaq's books. I have already sold four copies of Edeya Hanate."

Adding to the buzz, the Kannada Book Authority launched Booker Banu—Banu Mushtaq Baduku Baraha, a biography by B Shivananda, at the fair.

Restrictions on official foreign trips by babus

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE State Government has restricted government officials from travelling outside India till the end of this year.

A Department of Personnel and Administration Reforms (DPAR) note stated that the decision was taken as per CM Siddaramaiah's instructions.

Earlier, there were directives to government officials, who had travelled outside India for official work between August 2024 and July 2025, to submit their study report to the government. However, it has come to the notice of the government that in spite of the CM's instructions, many have not submitted their foreign trip report. Now, those who are applying for an official tour outside India have to mandatorily produce documents of their previous foreign tour reports, only after verification and reviewing will the government give permission for their proposal.

Tank authority to hand over water bodies to GBA soon

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Tanks' Conservation and Development Authority (KTCDA) will soon hand over the lakes and tanks under its jurisdiction on the outskirts of Bengaluru to the newly formed five city corporations under the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA).

KTCDA manages 46 lakes and tanks on the outskirts of the city. But these water bodies are under the Minor Irrigation Department. Now, 167 lakes spread across 246 acres and 36.4 guntas in Bengaluru come under the GBA.

BK Pavithra, chief executive officer, KTCDA, told TNIE that several new areas have been brought under the GBA. Accordingly, the water bodies, drainage systems and other utilities from these areas will also come under the GBA. So, after the boundaries of each corporation are marked and notified, the water bodies will be handed over to the GBA for maintenance. The new corporations will have the responsibility of protecting the water bodies, she said.

But the forest department, which has a few lakes under its jurisdiction in and around Bengaluru, is not keen on handing them over to the GBA. "We have handed over the Hebbal, Madiwala and Nagawara lakes to BBMP. But they are not being maintained properly. The size of these water bodies have dropped. We are not keen on handing over the Hessaraghatta Lake or the Yelahanka Puttenahalli Bird Conservation Reserve to the GBA. This is because under the "cup-and-saucer" method of rejuvenation now being followed, natural biodiversity is completely lost -- aquatic species and migratory birds have been hit," a forest official said.

A KTCDA official said, "When there is clean water and no encroachments, birds and aquatic species will thrive. It depends on the maintenance by GBA engineers."

This year Dasara's dubious record, 2,219 members included in 16 sub-committees

KARTHIK KK
@ Mysuru

THE list of non-official members for 16 Dasara sub-committees has been announced and it is nothing short of a record. A staggering 2,219 members have been named as chairpersons, vice-presidents and members across different committees, sparking discontent in political circles.

From political veterans to youth leaders from Congress have been included in the list. From yoga to wrestling, food mela to cultural events, each committee boasts of over a hundred members.

The Jamboo Savari (procession) and Yuva Dasara committees top the chart with 155 members each, while the Yoga Dasara sub-committee has 135 members. Committees such as illumination and Kavi Goshti (poets' meet) carry more than 120 names.

Political veterans too have found space. Former zoo authority chairperson Mallige Veeresh is the chairperson of the Women and Child Dasara committee, while former corporator KV Mallesh heads the Cultural Dasara committee. But the frustration is not just about the record numbers. Congress workers from across Mysuru and neighbouring districts, who lobbied hard for berths, are expressing frustration at the timing.

"Every year, the names come late. The officers do all the work, and we are left as mere names on paper," said a senior Congress worker, adding that lobbying for the posts has become more about visibility than responsibility.

While the jumbo-sized committees showcase the ruling party's bid to accommodate its cadre and allies, a senior retired police officer said it reflects patronage politics at its peak.

Symbolic Cauvery Aarti at KRS Dam from Sept 26-30

With the Karnataka High Court staying the state government's ambitious ₹100-crore Cauvery Aarti project at KRS Dam, a symbolic Cauvery Aarti will instead be held at the dam site in Srirangapatna taluk from September 26 to 30. Op Numkhor: Customs seize Dulquer's cars

Vehicles imported illegally using forged papers with fake Army links; Prithviraj raided too

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

ACTING on specific intelligence input that high value second-hand cars are being smuggled into the country through the Indo-Bhutan border, customs officials on Tuesday raided around 35 locations in the state, including the Kochi residences of film stars Dulquer Salmaan and Prithviraj Sukumaran.

A total of 36 vehicles have been seized from across the state in the nationwide investigation, codenamed 'Operation Numkhor', Customs preventive commissioner T Tiju said

The raids were conducted by the customs (preventive) commissionerate, Kochi, with the assistance of transport commissionerate of Kerala, ATS, and the state police, he said.

"We launched this operation after a five-to-six-month investigation revealed that a specific gang was smuggling luxury second-hand cars through the Indo-Bhutan border. Intelligence inputs suggested that as many as 150–200 such vehicles were already plying in Kerala. So far, we have seized 36, " he said.

Indian law does not permit import of second-hand vehicles, except under specific provisions such as transfer of residence, which requires payment of duties amounting to 160%. "In this case, the vehicles were brought in completely illegally," he said.

The gang had used forged documents bearing the names of the Indian Army, the Indian and American embassies, along with fake seals and insignias, Tiju said.

"There was also intelligence alert that gold and drugs were being transported along with these vehicles, raising concerns of both national and economic-security. In addition, serious violations of GST, income tax, and enforcement regulations were found in connection with these transactions. More details will emerge only after a thorough investigation," he added.

Dulquer Salmaan and Prithviraj. (Below) The cars that were seized

The officials conducted raids in residences and luxury car showrooms in Thiruvananthapuram, Kottayam, Kozhikode, Malappuram, Adimali, and Kuttipuram.

"As part of the operation, a Defender and a Land Cruiser belonging to Dulquer were seized. However, one of the vehicles was not taken into custody as it was deemed unfit for the road. Similarly, a Land Cruiser and a Lexus were seized from Amit Chakkalackal's residence. No vehicles were seized from Prithviraj's residence," said a source with Customs.

These luxury cars had either been imported illegally and registered under fake addresses across India or brought in from Bhutan and fraudulently registered as old vehicles to evade tax, said the official.

DSP remand: HC inquiry report indicts Kanchi judge

R SIVAKUMAR @ Chennai

THE Madras High Court on Tuesday instructed transfer of the Principal Sessions and District Judge (PDJ) Pa U Chemmal, who had recently stirred a controversy by suo motu issuing an order for remanding a DSP for alleged inaction in connection with a complaint lodged under the SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Act.

An inquiry by the Registrar-Vigilance ordered by the HC found that the district judge had issued the remand order due to a personal dispute between the judge and his former personal security officer, police constable Lokeswaran Ravi. Justice N Sathish Kumar on Tuesday directed the Registrar-Vigilance of HC to place the inquiry report before the court's administrative committee and the transfer committee for action against Chemmal.

Justice Kumar, who disposed of the petitions filed by Kancheepram SP against the remand order and by Lokeswaran Ravi seeking quashing of the externment order passed against him by the PDJ, also noted that the PDJ had issued another order to close down a medical shop for selling medicines without a prescription.

The HC had earlier quashed the suo motu remand order.

The complaint under SC/ST Act was lodged against Ravi's father-in-law Sivakumar who runs a bakery where a tiff broke out between the latter and one Murugan but they settled the issue by compromise. However, the PDJ issued the suo motu order for remanding the DSP on September 4, apart from issuing the externment order against Ravi and a few other accused persons.

Justice Sathish Kumar had earlier commented that the externment order against the PSO and other accused under Section 10 of SC/ST Act was "totally unwarranted."

TN boy stripped, thrashed in hostel

VIGNESH V @ Madurai

A 14-year-old student of a government industrial training institute (ITI) was stripped and brutally beaten up allegedly by three of his batchmates in a case of ragging at a government Kallar hostel at Chekkanurani in Madurai district. The incident, which took place on the night of September 18, has triggered outrage after a 39-second video of the act went viral on social media on Tuesday.

The video, which was recorded by a friend of the victim, shows the juveniles — who are first-year students of a course at the ITI — forcing the victim to strip and later beating him on his private parts with a slipper. The victim, who is a first-year student, can be seen begging for his clothes.

Acting on a complaint from the victim's father, Chekkanurani police detained the three boys on Tuesday and booked them under Sections 115 (2), 133, and 351(2) of the BNS and the TN Prohibition of Ragging Act. They were produced before the Juvenile Justice Board (JJB) on Tuesday evening, sources said. "The three students and warden of the hostel, Balasubramanian, have been suspended, and the victim had gone on leave," a faculty member of the ITI said. The hostel is run by the state's Kallar Reclamation Board, police said.

While the victim belongs to a caste Hindu community, the three juveniles are from caste Hindu and Scheduled Caste communities.

Doc operates on wrong leg at HIMS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hassan

A physician inadvertently operated on the right ankle of a woman rather than her left leg to extricate a steel rod that had been inserted two years earlier at the Hassan Institute of Medical Sciences (HIMS) on Tuesday. Sources indicate that Dr. Santosh conducted the procedure on Jyothi's right ankle after she sought medical attention at HIMS due to severe pain in her left ankle.

The steel rod had been implanted following an accident two years ago. Upon realisation of his error, Dr. Santosh, the attending physician at HIMS, immediately sutured the incision on the right ankle and dressed the wound.

The gravity of the situation escalated, leading to a mention at the KDP meeting by an MLA on Tuesday. Fellow legislators and the district in-charge minister condemned the physician's negligence.

Meanwhile, Krishna Byre Gowda, the district in-charge minister, has instructed district surgeon Raghavendra Prasad to prepare a comprehensive report following an investigation into the incident.

Min backs protest against PPP med college

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Vijayapura

THE ongoing agitation for a government medical college and opposition to the PPP model medical college for Vijayapura district has received a boost with APMC and Textile Minister Shivanand Patil extending his support.

Patil visited the indefinite strike site organised under the banner of the Government Medical College Struggle Committee at Dr. BR Ambedkar Circle on Monday and assured the protesters that he would take up the matter with Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar.

The minister said he too shared the demand for a government-run medical college in Vijayapura and strongly opposed the PPP model, stating that such an arrangement would burden common people instead of serving them. "There is no PPP model medical college in Karnataka. Why bring such a model only in this district? This will exploit the poor and not benefit them," he said, vowing to raise his voice until the demand was met.

Recalling his tenure as Health Minister during the Congress-JDS coalition government, Patil said that he had put all efforts to get a government medical college sanctioned for the district. "I also ensured the provision of all basic facilities, including a trauma centre, super-specialty hospital, 150-bed mother and child care centre, AYUSH hospital, nursing colleges, a regional commissioner's office, and 150 acres of land with fencing.

Now, only a grant of Rs 100 crore is required, and even that can be released in two stages for the project to take off," he said.

VIJAYAWADA: Andhra Pradesh Minister for HRD and IT Nara Lokesh has made it clear that Visakhapatnam Steel Plant (VSP) will not be privatised, and the TDP-JSP-BJP combine has clarity on it. Participating in a short discussion in the AP Legislative Council on Tuesday, Lokesh introduced a resolution, thanking the Centre for safeguarding the steel plant. He urged the Council to approve the resolution unanimously. When YSRCP MLC Varudu Kalyani raised the issue, and demanded that the TDP withdraw support to the BJP-led NDA government at the Centre, Lokesh faulted her, stating that VSP suffered injustice during the previous regime. It led to a verbal duel between the treasury benches and the opposition with Leader of the Opposition Botcha Satyanarayana faulting Lokesh for using objectionable language against a woman member.

Won't compromise Krishna waters: TG govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

TELANGANA Irrigation Minister N Uttam Kumar Reddy on Tuesday said the state was fighting for an equitable share in Krishna river waters before the Krishna Water Disputes Tribunal-II (KWDT-II) and had placed a claim for nearly 70% of the water earlier allocated to the undivided Andhra Pradesh.

Speaking to reporters in Delhi after attending the Brijesh Kumar Tribunal's final hearings, which resumed on Tuesday, the Irrigation minister said the matter had reached the final stage with Telangana presenting its concluding arguments since February this year. This was perhaps the first time that an Irrigation minister attended tribunal hearings.

Uttam explained that the Tribunal proceedings were being held under Section 3 of the Inter-State Water Disputes Act, 1956, and that all pleadings had already been completed. Telangana has been presenting its final arguments over the past several months through senior advocate S Vaidyanathan, who was allotted three days to argue the state's case in detail.

The minister said Telangana was determined to secure its fair share and correct the historical injustice it had suffered in the past.

Uttam said Telangana's claim was built on rational and internationally accepted parameters such as catchment area, population within the basin, extent of drought-prone regions and cultivable land.

The Irrigation minister vehemently opposed the Karnataka government's move to increase the height of the Almatti dam, which he said would directly harm Telangana's interests.

CEMENT LEGACY WITH BETTER PUBLIC GOODS, NOT STATUARY POLITICS

THE Supreme Court's refusal to allow the Tamil Nadu government to install a statue of former Chief Minister M Karunanidhi in Tirunelveli is not just a local setback. It exposes a persistent national malaise: ruling parties often treat leaders' monuments as their legacy, and as symbols of development and public welfare. From the sprawling elephant parks commissioned by Mayawati in Uttar Pradesh to Gujarat's colossal Statue of Unity, and countless arches, domes, and memorials erected for Nehru, Ambedkar, Shivaji, or regional icons, the pattern is familiar. Every ruling party, irrespective of ideology, succumbs to the politics of perceived permanence. The criticism here is not about cultural monuments or works of art, but specifically about statues and memorials to political leaders—whether crowd-funded or, more troublingly, built with public money. The justification is couched in noble words—honouring leaders, preserving history—but the reality is that statues are instruments of political branding, designed to etch a ruling dispensation's imprint on public space.

The real tragedy is in the opportunity cost. Parties in power prefer the certainty of marble over the challenge of building lasting welfare such as schools that educate generations, hospitals that save lives, or clean water systems that ease daily burdens. The tendency is not confined to statues alone. The naming of roads, airports, universities, and welfare schemes after political leaders—an entrenched practice since independence—reflects the same impulse. Like statues, these names perpetuate personality cults, distracting from the institutions' real purpose and the citizens they serve.

Courts and institutions have tried, with mixed success, to temper this tendency. National parties criticise regional ones for "statue mania", but engage in the same practices themselves. To blunt criticism, some even hide behind the images of gods or widely respected national figures. The Madras High Court has suggested 'leaders' parks' to contain statues without obstructing civic life. The Election Commission once directed that statues of Mayawati and the party symbol, the elephant, be covered during campaigns to avoid influencing voters. Mayawati herself once dismissed the notion that statues should only be built posthumously, underscoring how deeply political calculations influence such projects. A country still grappling with poverty, unemployment, and poor infrastructure cannot afford the luxury of the politics of monuments. Remembering leaders is important, but the truest memorial is improving everyday lives.

INDIA NEED THIS CUP FOR WOMEN'S CRICKET TO GROW

THE Women's ODI World Cup is finally here. Next week, when the curtains rise on the ultimate challenge in women's cricket at Guwahati, India will be hoping to create history. Despite reaching the final twice this century, the team has not won the World Cup. As India is a co-host along with Sri Lanka, the stage is fitting for a memorable success. On their current form, India are definitely among the contenders, and a grand achievement would take the sport to a new high in a country still seeking prestige in women's cricket. Like all world cups, the road will not be easy for Harmanpreet Kaur and her team. However, over the years, things have changed significantly off the field. With the inception of a T20 league of their own, the women's sport's popularity has increased, as has the star value of the Women in Blue. A win at the global event can lead to a new dawn. There is the home advantage; however, it can be a double-edged sword that also brings on the pressure of expectations.

For a senior pro like captain Kaur, this could be a perfect setting to put all her experience to use. This could be her last opportunity to ensure greatness. Anything less than a win would not give a fitting end to her illustrious ODI career. She has been the hinge around which the Indian team has revolved for a while, and at 36, she is not growing younger. But success demands that most of her teammates also must perform. India's younger generation will have to rise to the occasion and help Kaur and Smriti Mandhana lead the way. It is time for the likes of Pratika Rawal, Jemimah Rodrigues, Amanjot Kaur, Richa Ghosh, and Arundhati Reddy to step up and win matches. Fielding had been a pain point for some time, and India must address the issue before the campaign begins. A good tournament would not just help the sport grow overall, but also take the women's game to the hinterland. Yes, there was criticism over selecting new and smaller centres for the World Cup; but on the brighter side, a good game or two could be the right catalyst to boost women's cricket, and attract younger and hungrier players from small-town India.

QUICK TAKE

INVESTING IN SCIENTISTS

INDIA and Brazil strengthened their cross-pollination efforts in agriculture this week. The Indian Council of Agricultural Research and Brazilian Agricultural Research Corporation (Embrapa) signed a pact to innovate and incubate together. Though the Brazilian food industry has benefited immensely from India through early Portuguese links and continuing cooperation in recent decades, the reason the Latin American country's agricultural exports are more than three times India's is, partly, the foresightedness of Embrapa. Starting in the early 1970s, it funded hundreds of Brazilian scientists' research in American and European institutions. It also stayed effective in influencing policy by communicating the impact of its human capital—running ads and helping researchers talk to the media. One route to food security is putting scientists first.

The common factors behind the uprisings in South Asia include social media's illusion of empowerment, lack of intergenerational dialogue, and political elites unable to provide distinct alternatives

WHY THE REGION'S YOUTH ARE PUTTING POLITICOS ON NOTICE

VINAY SAHASRABUDDHE

SOURAV ROY

WHAT is common between the unrest seen in the recent past in Nepal, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka? It is the pent up public anger against the entire political class. In all the three countries in India's neighbourhood, people had given a fair chance to almost all political formations available as options. When they realised that none of the alliances are rising to the popular expectations of corruption-free, efficient state-craft, their anger erupted like a volcano.

Another important similarity is that young people, mostly belonging to Gen Z, taking to the streets and rejecting all established political parties lock, stock and barrel. This was an indication of anxiety, as the message of 'We have lost our patience!' coming from the young generations of these countries was too clear to be missed.

It's true that hastily drawn, simplistic conclusions may lead us to more confusion, as the role of deep state and similar factors that are beneath the surface need further probe. Still, at least four important factors are emerging as lessons for all democracies in general, and developing countries in particular. These lessons are about failure of the political class to deal with the intricacies of democratic governance, repeatedly experiencing lack of patience from Gen Z, coupled with absence of intergenerational dialogues, the impact of illusions created by social media, and perhaps the supremely important factor of abject bankruptcy of political parties as democratic institutions. It would not be an exaggeration to suggest that all these factors are at the backdrop of the turmoil in Nepal and were also present in Bangladesh and Sri Lanka to a fair extent.

First, the intricacies of democratic governance. Unfortunately, many make the mistake of taking a skewed approach towards democracy and try to equate it with elections. They ignore what several researchers and academics like Pippa Norris of Harvard Kennedy School have repeatedly said about the need for liberal democratic values going hand in hand with efficient state-craft for democracies to sustain. And for efficient state-craft, the prerequisite is efficient elected representatives. But sadly, in most representative democracies, electability of a candidate obviously dominates and the quality or ability to govern on his/her part is pushed to the periphery.

Add to this the mounting pressures of populism and incapacity of the political classes to deal with them adroitly. One more factor common to the uprisings in Nepal, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka is the fact that practically none had any inkling of what was in store till the sudden outburst of popular anger. This also shows how the political classes—both ruling as well as in opposition—were miles away from the ground realities.

Losing patience is the second common factor—a restive Gen Z craving quick results, with its attention span getting ever shorter. There is a reason to believe that the absence of intergenerational dialogue within and outside families is a factor behind Gen Z's restiveness. According to a Pew Research Center survey from July 2025, about three-quarters of teens say that social media platforms make them feel more connected to their friends. And 63 percent credit social media with giving them a place to show their creative side, in other words and help them build their social identity. Notably, 34 percent of girls versus 20 percent of boys also say online platforms make them feel worse about their own lives, something that could be described as mainspring of their anger against the establishment.

In South Asia, Gen Z anger also could be attributed to the fact that many of them have not seen or experienced challenges like poverty and deprivation faced by the previous generations. As a consequence, there is a lack of ability on the part of many in Gen Z to empathise with the weaker sections.

In addition to this, social media—at least for a sizeable majority of youths—also creates an illusion of empowerment. When they realise that this empowerment is just a make-believe, frustration is bound to explode. Again, as highlighted by another Pew study from 2022, drawn into unrealistic social comparisons, 'teens, especially girls, report feeling worse about their own lives due to social media, suggesting that the curated, often aspirational content can lead to negative self-perception and a warped sense of reality'. It further pointed out that 'the spread of misinformation and the exposure to negative content on social media have led to concerns about not being sure what to believe, contributing to a general distrust of the information presented'. What was seen on the streets of Kathmandu, Dhaka and Colombo was this mistrust, deep-rooted and widespread.

But finally, the most serious reason for this situation is the democratic moorings of the political parties. In all these three countries, the majority of the political parties have no consistent ideological identity, no independent policy perspective, and no definitive and credible capacity to brave the challenges faced by their respective countries in a convincing manner. Most parties in these countries have lost their ability to add any distinctive value to the table. At the end of the day, they just remain different labels adopted by desperate politicians, bereft of any genuinely different approach towards economic or social issues.

When parties fail in providing any alternative, the element of choice—so very central to the idea of democracy—evaporates, making the entire apparatus of democracy a theatre of the absurd. Faced with a dilemma between tolerating a worthless democracy and anarchy, at least Bangladeshi and Nepali youths seemed to have opted for the latter, at least temporarily.

The essential message of young South Asians to the entire democratic community is very clear: deliver or depart, perform or perish! People are not going to accept bad governance, nepotism and corruption simply because it is under a democratically elected government. If the young in many countries are in a mood to prefer anarchy against a democracy that can't deliver, it is time to sit up and take note.

FOR A COURT THAT STANDS FIRM

C K G NAIR
Former member, Securities Appellate Tribunal

M S SAHOO
Former Chairperson, Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India

THE Supreme Court is the custodian of India's 'living' Constitution and the final arbiter of the laws of the land. Though one of the three equal pillars of the State, it holds an exalted position not only by constitutional design, but also in the public conscience, earned through its untiring efforts in upholding the Constitution and steadfast protection of citizens' rights. All citizens, including these authors, repose high expectations on the SC as it discharges its dharma of justice.

It is the final authority in ensuring closure to disputes. Though it may not necessarily always be right (due to human frailties), it is always final—and the institution has lived up to this expectation umpteen times. However, certain recent developments suggest that this finality is no longer assured. Judgements are being revisited, stayed, recalled, or altered—creating a perception that a matter is not truly settled even after the SC has pronounced its verdict.

This blurring of finality raises important questions on the certainty of law, the authority of judicial outcomes, and the stability of legal systems. Consider a few recent examples that happened in quick succession. The resolution plan of Bhushan Power and Steel was rejected in May while disposing of an appeal filed five years ago. At end July, a bench headed by the Chief Justice of India recalled the judgement for review, as it had not correctly considered the legal position laid down by a catena of judgements.

Another order in early August, while castigating a high court judge for lack of knowledge in criminal laws, de-rostered him from hearing criminal cases. On a request from the Chief Justice of India, the same bench deleted some of the directions from the judgement.

A third instance is the mid-August stay of the order given few days earlier on the stray dog problem in the national capital. The review order issued by a different three-judge bench modified and mollified some of the directions in the order impugned. All these reversals, stays or reviews followed massive public and expert outcries on the original orders.

Even arbitral awards, which by design are final and not generally appealable, are not immune to uncertainty. In DMRC vs Delhi Airport Metro Express, the award traversed the SC through a special leave petition, a review petition, and a curative petition, with the court eventually overturning its own earlier decision.

The need for revisiting orders by the Supreme Court, especially within a short span of time, is a very serious matter irrespective of whether public sentiment or its own conscience is the reason. It undermines the very foundation of finality and precedents provided under Articles 141 and 137 of the Constitution. To stand by things decided—stare decisis—is an age-old principle followed by all established judicial systems. A weakening of this principle, that too in the face of several other constraints, accentuates the limitations of the judiciary in dealing with the mounting pendency and the trauma of the affected parties waiting for justice.

PTI

> The Supreme Court has been revisiting too many of its own orders, affecting the principle of finality. The rising number of revision, review, and curative petitions is evidence of a malady that affects certainty and adds to pendency. Structural reforms from within the judiciary are called for

Let's make it abundantly clear that we are not on the merit of any of these judicial pronouncements, only on about the processes that make certainty a casualty. Even in major commercial matters where uncertainty can have larger economy-wide or international ramifications, incurring huge opportunity costs.

The SC handles an astounding number and variety of cases, ranging from fundamental constitutional questions, human rights, diverse PILs, to matters of daily life—health, pregnancy, property, agency inaction/hyper-action, municipal failures like on street animals, socio-cultural disputes, and even individual instances of cheating, pre-arrest bails, etc. After all, India is a litigants' paradise. Managing such a vast and complex docket inevitably takes an enormous toll on the learned judges and the system.

The high pendency of cases at every stage of the judicial hierarchy is well known. Delays are often attributed to lingering vacancies, inadequate number of judges, support staff, infrastructural constraints, and even the executive-judiciary tussle on overreach. These issues have existed for long, aggravating the cold reality of justice being denied through delays. But 'delayed-then-hurried' orders are also hurting finality, aggravating the problem of pendency. The rising number of revision, review, and curative petitions is clear evidence of the malady affecting certainty like a double-edged weapon.

Given these issues, the SC should suo motu take up the mandate of structural reforms from within. It should address issues like limiting the number of appeals, revision, and review, and reimagining the role of high courts as constitutional courts. It can also ensure a high degree of professionalism in minimising adjournments, weeding out frivolous petitions, writing matter-of-fact orders, and revisiting the selection and confirmation criteria for judges.

The higher judiciary can implement many of the internal reforms under Articles 145 and 225. Reforms needing support from the other two pillars of the State should be in response to an agenda set by the judiciary. Proactive judicial reforms by the executive or legislature may be seen as interference. Therefore, in parallel to demanding executive action on funding, appointments, and other administrative steps, the SC must lead a structural and procedural transformation from within. That should guarantee fast finality to disputes and in ensuring 'complete justice' to the people.

Trump's claims on paracetamol's link to autism unscientific: Experts

Former WHO chief scientist says remarks premature, drug still safest for pregnant women

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

FORMER World Health Organization (WHO) Chief Scientist Soumya Swaminathan on Tuesday said there is no scientific basis to United States President Donald Trump's statement that the common painkiller Tylenol, known as paracetamol in India, is linked to autism.

Speaking with this paper, the Indian paediatrician said Trump's remarks had created panic. She stressed that paracetamol is "still the safest drug for pregnant women."

"There is no new evidence that links paracetamol use to autism," she said. "I don't know what prompted him (Trump) to make such remarks. It seems premature and rushed. The sudden announcement has created a lot of panic."

Swaminathan said that while some past studies had shown some link, the association was "weak" and there has been "no new research".

Trump, speaking at a press conference at the White House on Monday, told pregnant women to avoid Tylenol. "Don't take Tylenol. Fight like hell not to take it. There may be a point where you have to, and that you'll have to work out with yourself," he said, flanked by public health officials. "I'll say it. It's not good. For this reason, they are strongly recommending that women limit Tylenol use during pregnancy unless medically necessary."

1 in 127 people had autism in 2021, says WHO

Autism — also referred to as autism spectrum disorder constitutes a diverse group of conditions related to development of the brain. In 2021 about 1 in 127 people had autism, according to the WHO. Characteristics may be detected in early childhood, but autism is often not diagnosed until much later.

Soon after, the US drug regulator said it would add a label to paracetamol warning of an increased risk of autism and ADHD in children.

The claim was rejected by the WHO, the European Medicines Agency (EMA), and UK health agencies. At a press conference on Tuesday, WHO spokesperson Tarik Jasarevic said, "The evidence remains inconsistent." He added, "We know that vaccines do not cause autism. Vaccines, as I said, save countless lives. So, this is something that science has proven, and these things should not be really questioned."

The EMA also stated there was no new evidence requiring any change to its current recommendations on paracetamol use in pregnancy.

Indian doctors expressed similar views. Dr Rajeev Jayadevan, Co-Chairman of the National IMA Covid Task Force and past president of the Indian Medical Association, Cochin, said, "The claim is not based on good scientific evidence."

He pointed to a Swedish study involving 2.4 million children that found no increased risk of autism or other neurodevelopmental disorders in children whose mothers had taken paracetamol during pregnancy. "On the contrary, if pregnant women refuse to take paracetamol during a fever, that has some risk for the baby as well as the mother," he said.

Jayadevan added that the American College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists has also stated there is no risk of autism following paracetamol use in pregnancy.

Tylenol is the brand name for acetaminophen, a widely used over-the-counter medication for pain and fever relief. It is commonly prescribed for headaches, backaches, arthritis pain, toothache, muscle aches, and menstrual cramps.

Autism – also referred to as autism spectrum disorder constitutes a diverse group of conditions related to development of the brain. In 2021 about 1 in 127 persons had autism, according to the WHO.

Characteristics may be detected in early childhood, but autism is often not diagnosed until much later.

The abilities and needs of autistic people vary and can evolve over time. While some people with autism can live independently, others have severe disabilities and require life-long care and support.

Evidence-based psychosocial interventions can improve communication and social skills, with a positive impact on the well-being and quality of life of both autistic people and their caregivers.

SC: Understaffed HCs not under supervisory control

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday said high courts are not under its supervisory control and if they are functioning with half their strength, one cannot expect them to cope with all the matters expeditiously.

A bench of Justice Vikram Nath and Justice Sandeep Mehta made the observation and refused to entertain a plea seeking a direction to the Allahabad High Court for early disposal of an appeal that has been pending for more than 13 years.

The counsel appearing for the petitioner argued before the apex court that despite filing two applications before the Allahabad High Court for early disposal, the matter has remained stagnant.

"Continue filing. If the high courts are functioning on half the strength, how do you expect them to cope with all the matters as expeditiously as you want? There are older matters pending. Go and make a request. The high courts are not under the supervisory control of this court," the bench said.

Justice Nath remembered his days when he was practising as a lawyer in the Allahabad High Court, and stated his own experience of the difficulties in getting cases listed for hearing. "Two applications are nothing. You may have to file hundreds of applications to get your matter listed," he remarked.

Though the bench did not pass any order in favour of the petitioner, it observed that heavy caseload and shortage of judges that high courts are grappling with are a major cause of concern. It went on to observe that with half the sanctioned strength in HCs, expecting them to deal with all cases quickly is unrealistic. The bench said vacancies in judges' posts in high courts aggravates and adversely affects the disposal of cases.

According to the data on the law ministry website, the sanctioned strength of judges in high courts is 1,122 but they are functioning at 792 judge with 330 vacancies as on September 1.

SC sets aside HC order on judicial jobs

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday reversed a Madhya Pradesh High Court ruling which made three-year legal practice mandatory to be eligible for the civil judge's post.

A bench of Justices P S Narasimha and Atul S Chandurkar allowed the appeal filed by Madhya Pradesh High Court challenging the ruling of its division bench.

Advocate Ashwani Kumar Dubey, appearing for the HC, argued that a re-exam was "unconstitutional, impractical" and would floodgates of litigation.

The Madhya Pradesh Judicial Services (Recruitment and Conditions of Service) Rules, 1994 were amended on June 23, 2023, to make three years of practice compulsory to be eligible to appear for the civil judge entry-level test in the state.

The apex court passed the order on an appeal filed by the high court against the June 13, 2024, order passed by its division bench directing it to weed out or exclude all those successful candidates in the preliminary examination held on January 14, 2024, who did not fulfil the eligibility criteria under the amended rules.

MHA to firm up norms for panel on demography and security challenges

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) is in the process of soon finalising detailed contours of the High Level Committee (HLC), comprising members drawn from the centre and the bordering states and terms of reference, to deal with issues relating to change in demography, security and other challenges posed by illegal immigrants in different States and Union Territories (UTs), sources said on Tuesday.

According to them the focus states in terms of demographic changes include Assam, West Bengal, North Eastern States and Jammu and Kashmir among others.

The sources said that a notification with regard to formation of such a HLC would soon be issued, as the names members and Terms of Reference of the panel are being worked out in line with Prime Minister Narendra Modi's announcement in his Independence Day speech this year with regard to 'Demography Commission'.

Soon after the announcement made by the Prime Minister on August 15, the MHA was assigned the task of giving it a formal shape, as a proposal in this regard was approved by the Union Cabinet.

A source in the Ministry said, "The high-level panel will suggest steps to deal with demographic changes arising out of illegal immigrants and other issues like security challenges."

Of late the ruling BJP has made the issue of illegal immigrants a poll issue state after another during assembly elections. The BJP claims that the issue has assumed alarming proportions in the States like Assam and West Bengal though it has been contained to some extent in Jammu and Kashmir.

Notably, the Election Commission, meanwhile, is planning to launch Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls across the country, most likely in the month of October or November. The aim is to weed out ineligible from the voters' list.

Uniform and simplified rules for film production soon: Vaishnaw

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

MINISTER of Information and Broadcasting Ashwini Vaishnaw on Tuesday announced that the Government would soon introduce model state cinema regulations to streamline outdated rules and bring uniformity in approvals related to filmmaking.

Speaking at the 71th National Film Awards ceremony in New Delhi, he said, "We have taken up one very important reform, model state cinema regulation rules. Every state has its own rules. Can we harmonize them, can we simplify them? Just like PM Narendra Modi removed 1,500 archaic laws, a process has started to bring model s tate cinema rules related to permissions for movies and film production."

Vaishaw also revealed plans to create a "live concert economy" backed by policy mechanisms and simplified approvals. "For today's middle classes, for the young generation, we have to make a big programme of live concert economy. Proper policy support will be there, uniform guidelines will be there, easy permissions will be there, and that will create another big wave in the ocean of creator's economy," the minister stated.

The move echoes Modi's remarks earlier this year, after the success of Coldplay concerts in Mumbai and Ahmedabad, where he had stressed India's potential in the global concert economy.

Vaishnaw further said that under the Government's Make in India push, efforts were underway to encourage local manufacturing of film production equipment, including high-end cameras.

The awards ceremony saw President Droupadi Murmu confer over 60 honours across film and non-film categories, including the Dadasaheb Phalke Award, presented to Malayalam superstar Mohanlal. Among the recipients were Shah Rukh Khan, Rani Mukerji and Vikrant Massey.

Addressing the gathering, Murmu said that the cinema plays the role of making citizens more sensitive.

Unemployment biggest problem, directly linked to vote theft, says Rahul

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday sought to link rising unemployment rates with "stolen elections" and asserted that young people will no longer tolerate "job theft" and "vote theft".

In a post on X, the Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha said unemployment is the biggest problem Indian youth face, and as long as elections are "stolen", unemployment and corruption will continue to rise.

This is a follow-up of his recent accusation that Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar is allegedly "protecting those murdering democracy". Gandhi also alleged large-scale voting-related irregularities in Karnataka's Aland constituency.

Gandhi also trained his guns at PM Modi, claiming he only focused on his PR, getting celebrities to sing his praises and billionaires to profit.

"When a government wins public trust and comes to power, its first duty is to provide employment and opportunities to the youth, he said. "However, the BJP doesn't win elections honestly — they stay in power by stealing votes and controlling institutions," Gandhi alleged. The government is identified with "shattering the hopes of the youth and leaving them frustrated", he said. "Now, the situation is changing. India's youth understand that the real fight isn't just for jobs, but against vote theft. Because as long as elections are stolen, unemployment and corruption will continue to rise," he added.

Gandhi also shared a split-screen video showing police lathi-charging protesting students seeking jobs and Modi planting saplings, feeding peacocks, and practising Yoga.

THE POET BEHIND THE POLITICIAN: MODI'S CREATIVE SIDE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

"EVERY Jawan is a farmer—sowing the seeds of future victory with his own blood, so that our tomorrow never wilts." These lines, from a poem written during the Kargil War in 1999, are not from none other than PM Narendra Modi.

Known for his decisive leadership, sharp administrative acumen, and powerful public speaking, Modi is also a poet and it remains an enduring part of his identity.

Writing mostly in Gujarati and Hindi, he has, for decades, poured his thoughts into verse, offering glimpses into his emotions, reflections, and the deeper impulses that perhaps shape his worldview.

His poetry, often lucid and evocative, holds a mirror to his inner world. It explores themes such as patriotism, spirituality, perseverance, and duty, weaving them into narratives that range from the deeply personal to the broadly national.

It is not poetry of detachment or distance, but verses connected to the country's soul. Modi's poems have often accompanied his political journey. They reflect an individual who seeks to find clarity in contemplation and strength in silence. Whether during times of war, celebration, or transition, his words seem to rise with the moment, as a personal reflection or public message or both. Patriotism is a recurring theme in many of his poems. In Kargil, written during the military conflict with Pakistan, he draws a striking parallel between soldiers and farmers, two figures central to India's being as a nation.

VIJAY NU PAROD LANGUAGE: GUJARATI

Theme: The poem touches upon the topics of national resurgence, collective struggle, and a spiritual awakening leading to victory. While it is not directly about a political event or war, its tone of awakening, resilience, and societal transformation makes it strongly patriotic. (published Sadhana Magazine)

The poem focuses on sacrifice, service, and the quiet valour of those who protect and nurture the nation. Other poems such as Utho Veer, Vande Mataram, and Vijay Nu Parod echo similar sentiments. They are calls to awaken, unite, and persevere. The tone is passionate but not strident where conviction takes precedence over command.

His poetry also finds space in formal settings. In 2014, not long after taking office as PM, Modi recited lines from his Hindi poem Saugandh Mujhe Iss Mitti Ki, pledging unwavering commitment to the country. "I will not let this country bow," he said, blending political promise with poetic expression.

Another poem, Abhi Toh Suraj Uga Hai, rendered in both Hindi and English, has been quoted on several international occasions, including during his visit to the US. It speaks of hope and renewal—"Not for us or them, nor for me or you, but to glow for one and all." The sun, in this poem, becomes a quiet symbol of shared destiny.

His Independence Day speeches have also featured original poetry. In 2018, he shared Ek Bharat Naya Banana Hai, encouraging citizens, especially the youth—to help shape the country's future. In 2021, during the 75th Independence Day celebrations, he recited Yahi Samay Hai, Sahi Samay Hai, Bharat Ka Anmol Samay Hai, a piece that combines patriotism with personal responsibility, blending celebration with resolve.

SAUGANDH MUJHE ISS MITTI KI,MAIN DESH NAHI MITNE DUNGA

Theme: The poem touches upon the topics of national resurgence, collective struggle, and a spiritual awakening leading to victory. While it is not directly about a political event or war, its tone of awakening, resilience, and societal transformation makes it strongly patriotic. (published Sadhana Magazine)

While nationalism runs strongly through many of his poems, there are also spiritual and introspective layers. In Ab Kya Tujhko Arpan Karu, he ponders the nature of sacrifice, asking what more can be offered when one has already given everything. In Jay Shakti Ish Hai, he explores the idea of an inner power that draws strength from unity, tradition, and faith. These verses suggest that for Modi, nationalism and spirituality are not in conflict. They seamlessly coexist, feeding into a shared sense of purpose. Even in his firmest declarations, there is a sense of quiet resolve. This softer, more meditative tone stands in contrast to his fiery political speeches.

Of course, there are differing views on how much his poetry shapes public perception. Some see it as a genuine reflection of a lifelong habit of introspection, while others question whether it serves to humanise a strong political persona.

He has written essays, books, and columns in Gujarati journals long before national recognition came his way. His creative writing is not a recent addition to his image but a quiet companion through the years.

One feature that stands out in Modi's poetry is its clarity. He avoids dense metaphor or ornate language. Instead, he uses direct imagery: the soldier, the sun, the soil, the flame of hope.

In a political world often dominated by strategy and statements, this creative dimension adds another element. Modi's poetry reminds us that behind the public figure is a person who is shaped not just by policy and politics but also by memory, belief, and emotion.

Whether one views it as art, messaging, or a personal ritual, Modi's poetry offers a different lens through which to understand the man.

BSF urged to allow desilting of flooded land in Punjab villages

Farmers not permitted to use any machinery in fields across border fence for security reasons

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

FARMERS in Punjab's six border districts have urged the Border Security Force (BSF) to allow the desilting of their fields, which lie between the border fence on the Indian side and the zero line on the Indo-Pak international border, once the floodwaters recede, as there is very little time left to sow wheat. Currently, farmers are not permitted to dig or use machinery in these fields due to security concerns.

Surjit Singh Bhura, Vice President of Punjab Border Kisan Welfare Society, told this newspaper that approximately 16,000 acres of land out of the total 21,600 acres between the border fence and the zero line in Amritsar, Tarn Taran, Gurdaspur, Pathankot, Ferozepur, and Fazilka were submerged due to the floods.

He said water is now receding, but farmers do not know how much more time it will take. "Only a small pocket of land between Attari and Tarn Taran was not affected due to floods. The final figure will only emerge after the special gardawari is done by the state government," he added.

Bhura said, "I met DG BSF Daljit Singh Chawdhary at Delhi and submitted to him a memorandum on behalf of the farmers. I requested him that due to floods in the state, the border farmers have been badly affected in the six border districts of Punjab, as they suffered heavy losses and are facing several serious difficulties in farming."

He explained, "Floods took place due to the rise in water levels of the Ravi and Sutlej rivers and caused extensive damage. Due to this, large amounts of sand and silt have accumulated in the fields of the farmers, and in many places, new mounds and sandbanks have been formed. Now, the farmers have to remove feet of silt and sand from their fields.

Currently, farmers are not permitted to use any machinery in the fields across the fence due to security concerns.

They have only tractors and trolleys. We have requested that the BSF officials allow JCB and other machinery to remove the silt from our fields after the state government officers conduct a survey of their fields and grant permission. As time is very short, and we have to sow the next crop."

He also added, "We have requested that all gates should be opened at the BSF posts, as usually only one or two are opened. The company commanders should be authorized to make a decision in this regard on a case-by-case basis, as in routine, they always say that they have informed the senior officers and are waiting for a reply from them."

He further stated that they have requested that, while drafting the new Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) for farmers who till land across the international border fence, agricultural experts and farmers should also be consulted, so that farmers do not face such hardships in the future.

It was also demanded that farmers should be allowed to use electric devices to scare away animals which destroy crops from the Pakistan side, as the current device only gives a shock and does not kill them. Farmers should also be allowed to use the 14-foot path to access their fields through BSF gates.

'16K acres submerged'

Surjit Singh Bhura, Vice President of Punjab Border Kisan Welfare Society, told this newspaper that about 16,000 acres of land out of the 21,600 acres between the border fence and the zero line in Amritsar, Tarn Taran, Gurdaspur, Pathankot, Ferozepur, and Fazilka were submerged in the floods. He said water is now receding, but farmers do not know how much more time it will take. Only a small pocket between Attari and Tarn Taran was not affected.

Maha sops: ₹2.2K cr for over 3 lakh farmers for crop loss after heavy rain

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Maharashtra government on Tuesday approved ₹2,215 crore as financial assistance for 31,64,000 farmers whose crops were destroyed in torrential rains this monsoon. Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis said ₹1,829 crore of the approved amount has already been released.

More than 65 lakh acres of farmland have suffered major damage, resulting in huge losses. He said the panchamanas of the damaged crops have been done, and financial assistance has also been released.

However, the Opposition said the government's financial assistance is inadequate, given the extent of damage and devastation. Ajit Nawale, Secretary of the All India Kisan Sabha, said that the financial aid released by the government amounts to a mere ₹7,000 per farmer. That is rubbing salt in the farmers' wounds, he claimed, and demanded a minimum financial assistance of ₹50,000 per acre of damaged crop for the farmers.

The CM said the state was also approaching the Centre for assistance, adding, "The state government is supporting the farmers, and it will also provide the relief by relaxing the norms where necessary, where houses and farms have been damaged and livestock lost."

Fadnavis said, "Without waiting for the State government GRs and orders, relief works have been carried out. We have asked the district Collectors and even given them the authority to immediately distribute relief to affected farmers and those affected by unfortunate incidents, such as death, loss of livestock, and damage to houses. The administration can make decisions at its level instead of waiting for permission from the higher-ups. We have given them a full exemption to provide immediate relief to the affected people at the local level as well and ensure against fund shortage."

The government has deployed 17 teams of NDRF and SDRF to relocate stranded people to safer areas. The government has made arrangements for drinking water, food grains, and shelter for them.

Police commissioner system in Raipur

Chhattisgarh is set to introduce police commissioner system in Raipur, likely from November 1. With this change, Raipur will become the 73rd city in India to adopt the system aiming to make policing more efficient and responsive as the city grows into a metropolitan area. State DGP AD Gautam has directed preparations for the transition from the traditional system to a commissionerate structure. A seven-member panel, led by an ADG-rank officer, is studying existing models and preparing a draft proposal. Once ready, the proposal will be submitted to the Home Department for approval, paving the way for smoother law enforcement.

Faculty shortage hits medical colleges

Medical colleges in Chhattisgarh are facing a severe shortage of faculty. Out of 644 approved posts for assistant professors across 10 colleges, 332 remain vacant. Professors and associate professors are also in short supply, with 117 out of 241 professor posts and around 200 out of 399 associate professor posts empty. Usually, professor and associate professor positions are filled through promotions from assistant professors, as there is no direct recruitment. The state has proposed filling 125 assistant professor posts through the State Public Service Commission. The shortage affects teaching quality and student guidance.

Gujarat at forefront of startup surge, Shah hails GST reforms

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday kicked off the Startup Conclave 2025 with a fiery pitch, declaring that India's innovation engine has roared to life under Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision. "From Mind to Market this conclave is a platform to turn PM Modi's dream into reality," Shah said, crediting the country's youth for driving a 380% growth in startups over the past decade.

Before 2014, India's startup landscape was a barren field with just 500 startups and four unicorns. Today, Shah revealed that the nation has 1.92 lakh startups, over 120 unicorns valued at $350 billion, and a youth workforce shifting "from job seekers to job givers."

He urged industrialists and investors to tap into this vast reservoir of talent. "The potential of our youth is limitless. This conclave is the bridge to unlock it," Shah asserted.

Pivoting to fiscal reforms, Shah highlighted GST as the backbone of India's economic transformation, recalling how 16 fragmented taxes merged into one unified tax regime. "When GST began, states started with just ₹80,000 crore. Today, collections have skyrocketed to ₹2 lakh crore, strengthening India's economy," Shah said, hailing the reform as a bridge of trust between taxpayers and the government. He underscored Modi's pro-people tax policy, noting, "Earlier, income up to ₹2.5 lakh was tax-free. Today, citizens earning up to ₹12 lakh pay no tax. When people pay honestly, the government rewards their trust." Shah celebrated the rise of women entrepreneurs, pointing out that 48% of startups are women-led. "Matri Shakti always carries the spirit of Lakshmi Ji," he said, citing 900 women-run startups in the Northeast driving self-reliance.

The startup boom is no longer limited to metros. Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities now account for 37% of startups, with 9,000 new ventures annually, signalling a deepening innovation wave.

These startups, Shah said, have already generated 17.9 lakh jobs, turning India into a global talent hub. He singled out Gujarat as the epicentre of India's startup revolution, praising CM Bhupendra Patel's team for executing Modi's vision.

Pilots' body asks ministry for judicial probe into Ahmedabad plane crash

S LALITHA @ New Delhi

THE Federation of Indian Pilots (FIP) has written to the Civil Aviation Ministry demanding a judicial probe into the June 12 Air India flight AI171 crash in Ahmedabad that claimed 260 lives. The federation also plans to file a PIL in this connection in the Supreme Court shortly. It is demanding a court of inquiry (judicial probe) under Rule 12 of the Aircraft (Investigation of Accidents and Incidents) Rules, 2017. "We will also be moving the Supreme Court early next week with a similar request," a source told this reporter.

The response follows the Supreme Court's castigation of the Aircraft Accidents Investigation Bureau (AIIB) on Monday for suggesting that pilot error caused the crash in its preliminary report submitted a month later (July 12).

The bench was responding to a plea by an NGO, Safety Matters Foundation, seeking an independent probe. The letter, dated September 22, is signed by the president of the FIP, which represents over 5,000 professional pilots and aviation professionals.

It suggested that the probe panel can be on the lines of the Court of Inquiry set up after the Mangalore accident on May 22, 2010, involving an Air India Express flight, which claimed 158 lives. "A Presiding Officer which must be a retired Judge of the Supreme Court and a panel of unimpeachable, independent experts with knowledge of operational, aircraft maintenance, avionics and flight control systems," it said.

The letter to the ministry recalls that it had made a preliminary request in the aftermath of the accident for inclusion of subject-matter experts and a judicial inquiry. "This letter serves as a formal and urgent escalation of that position in light of grave and alarming developments," it said. It charged that the actions by the AAIB have violated statutory rules and ethical norms. The letter alleged that a delegation of the AAIB had made "an unsolicited visit" to the residence of Pushkar Raj Sabharwal, the 91-year-old bereaved father of deceased Pilot-in-Command Capt Sumeet Sabharwal, under the guise of offering condolences.

Trump calls Europe's green policies, immigration a 'double-tailed monster'

UN delegates groan as Don warns that green energy, open immigration will ruin economies

Donald Trump addresses 80th session of the United Nations General Assembly | AP

UNITED NATIONS

PRESIDENT Donald Trump returned to the United Nations on Tuesday to boast of his second-term foreign policy achievements and lash out at the world body as a feckless institution, while warning Europe it would be ruined if it doesn't turn away from a "double-tailed monster" of ill-conceived migration and green energy policies.

World leaders listened closely to his remarks at the UN General Assembly as Trump has already moved quickly to diminish US support for the world body in his first eight months in office. Even in his first term, he was no fan of the flavor of multilateralism that the United Nations espouses.

After his latest inauguration, he issued a first-day executive order withdrawing the US from the World Health Organization. That was followed by his move to end US participation in the UN Human Rights Council, and ordering up a review of US membership in hundreds of intergovernmental organisations aimed at determining whether they align with the priorities of his "America First" agenda.

Trump escalated that criticism on Tuesday, saying it's "empty words don't solve wars." "What is the purpose of the United Nations?" Trump said. "The UN has such tremendous potential. I've always said it. It has such tremendous, tremendous potential. But it's not even coming close to living up to that potential."

He trumpeted himself as a peacemaker and enumerated successes of his administration's efforts in several hotspots around the globe. At the same, Trump heralded his decisions to order the US military to carry out strikes on Iran and more recently against alleged drug smugglers from Venezuela and argued that globalists are on the verge of destroying successful nations.

Trump touted his administration's policies allowing for expanded drilling for oil and natural gas in the United States, and aggressively cracking down on illegal immigration, implicitly suggesting more countries should follow suit.

"I'm telling you that if you don't get away from the 'green energy' scam, your country is going to fail," Trump said.

"If you don't stop people that you've never seen before that you have nothing in common with your country is going to fail." Trump added, "I love the people of Europe, and I hate to see it being devastated by energy and immigration. This double-tailed monster destroys everything in its wake, and they cannot let that happen any longer." The passage of the wide-ranging address elicited some groans and uncomfortable laughter from delegates.

Trump urged European countries to abandon green energy initiatives, scoffing that, in decades past, some experts predicted that by the year 2000 "climate change will cause a global catastrophe." He said scientists predicted some nations might be "wiped off the map" by now, but insisted that's "not happening." Trump demanded that Hamas immediately release all hostages living and dead that it's holding in Gaza, saying the time for partial releases is over. He also criticised several European nations, including US allies, for recognising a Palestinian state, which he called a reward to Hamas for its Ocober 7, 2023, attacks in Israel that sparked the current conflict. AP

US, Brazil leaders to meet amid tensions

Trump says he and Brazilian President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva have agreed to meet next week as tensions between their countries have spiked in recent months under heavy Trump administration criticism. He said him and Lula spoke briefly as they passed each other. "I saw him, he saw me and we embraced," Trump said after criticising Brazil for its tariffs and prosecution of former Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro.

Public invited to walk streets, join dinner in DC

Trump shifted to talking about crime overall and specifically his crackdown in the US capital, asserting that the city is "a totally safe city" after he flooded the streets with National Guard troops and federal law enforcement officers. "I welcome you to come," Trump said. "In fact, we'll have dinner together at a local restaurant and we'll be able to walk. We don't have to go by an armored plated vehicle."

Time to choose between peace and war: UN chief

With global peace and progress under siege, the United Nations chief challenged world leaders on Tuesday to choose a future where the rule of law triumphs over raw power and where nations come together rather than scramble for self-interests. Secretary-General Antonio Guterres told world leaders that today's choice between peace or war, law or lawlessness, and cooperation or conflict is "more urgent and unforgiving."

Russian strikes kill civilians, Ukrainian drones shot down

KYIV

Russia said that it shot down three dozen Ukrainian drones heading toward Moscow while Ukraine said that Russian missiles, drones and bombs killed at least two civilians, as Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy persevered with efforts to bolster international support for his country at a UN gathering of world leaders on Tuesday.

With his troops under strain on the front line after more than three years of fighting Russia's bigger invading army, Zelensky was due to begin meetings with leaders gathered in New York this week for the UN General Assembly. They included US President Donald Trump, Zelenskyy's spokesperson, Serhii Nykyforov, told The Associated Press. Peace efforts set in motion by Trump since he returned to office in January appear to have stalled. Trump's Alaska summit with Russian President Vladimir Putin and a White House meeting with Zelenskyy and key European leaders took place more than a month ago, but the war has continued unabated.

Zelenskyy said that he met late Monday in New York with Keith Kellogg, Trump's special envoy. Kellogg and Zelenskyy discussed cooperation agreements on the manufacturing of drones and Ukraine's purchase of American weaponry, the Ukrainian president said on Telegram. European leaders have supported Zelenskyy's diplomatic efforts, even as the Israel-Hamas war in Gaza is expected to take center stage at the United Nations.

NATO warned Russia on Tuesday that it would use all means to defend against any further breaches of its airspace after the downing earlier this month of Russian drones over Poland and Estonia's report of an intrusion by Russian fighter jets last week. AP

China's global industrial hub closes ahead of typhoon

BEIJING

CHINA's global manufacturing hub, Guangdong province, on Tuesday evacuated over 3.71 lakh people while its modern and affluent cities like Shenzhen shut down to face Super Typhoon Ragasa, stated to be the most powerful storm to hit the region in recent years.

The province raised its emergency response to the highest level on Tuesday as Ragasa is forecast to make landfall along the central or western coastal areas of the province.

More than 10 cities, including the technology hub Shenzhen, have announced the closure of all markets, schools, factories and transport systems, advising people to stay indoors and stockpile food and water, the Hong Kong-based South China Morning Post reported.

More than 371,000 people have been evacuated across the province while helicopters and drones, 23 ships and 38,000 firefighters remain on standby, the Guangdong government said.

The central government has also sent evacuation and disaster aid, including more than 60,000 tents, beds, lights and family kits, state-run Xinhua news agency reported.

Shenzhen's airport and the Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macao bridge have been closed since Monday. According to the Chinese flight data app DAST, as of Tuesday noon, Shenzhen Bao'an International Airport cancelled 210 departing flights and 319 incoming flights.

All buses, taxis and subways will halt services by Tuesday evening, and highways will be closed. Guangzhou cancelled all flights until Wednesday evening, and Zhuhai cancelled 21 flights on Tuesday, the Post report said. AP

GST 2.0: Small retailers see short-term losses

While some retailers have already reduced prices to reflect lower tax outgo, most continue to seek clarity

PUSHPITA DEY & SANAL SUDEVAN
@ New Delhi/Chennai

DESPITE the new GST rates taking effect on September 22, retailers across sectors like pharma FMCG and textiles are struggling to pass on the revised pricing for end products to the customers.

Many retailers claim that they don't have clarity from the companies regarding the final pricing for the consumers. Many retailers expect it will take weeks before consumers see the impact on shelves.

The biggest challenge for retailers is unsold inventory purchased under older tax slabs. Several retailers said it will be challenging to pass on the new rates unless the stock is cleared. Few are planning to add older stocks with new stocks to adjust price. "We don't have clarity on how we are supposed to bill products at new rates. There has been no change in pricing so far for the end product," said Pallvi Nagpal, owner of women's apparel shop Sarojini in Delhi.

Similar uncertainty prevails among retailers in apparel and textile sectors across the country. While some have reduced prices to reflect lower tax outgo, most continue to seek clarity. "We are not able to sell finished products to shops and distributors at new rates because they had bought threads at 12% rate and it would not be possible to sell it at low GST rates for finished products to distributors too," said Shaheed Ansari, a weaver from Varanasi. Industry associations, he added, are yet to issue guidance on final pricing.

In Chennai, local apparel and textile retailers have begun modest markdowns. "We are putting the prices which have been told to us by senior executives," said a local shop owner.

Pharma retailers face similar difficulties. With stocks procured months in advance, they say immediate revision is not feasible. "If we still have older products left after a few months, then we might have to send those back to the companies as consumers won't be willing to buy products at old rates, when medicines at new rates are available," said Abhishek Banik, a pharmacy owner in Kolkata.

Even kirana store owners voiced concerns over incurring initial losses, though supermarkets, e-commerce platforms and departmental chains have managed to reflect revised prices more quickly. Supermarkets like MORE are providing additional counts to customers but expect to incur some losses.

"Small retailers may see cascading cost increases, eroding margins if they pass on hikes, or losing competitiveness if they absorb them. This is exacerbated by high festive season demand, where price sensitivity is acute. The simplified slabs ease long-term compliance, but short-term disruptions, like updating POS systems, invoices etc add costs without immediate revenue gains," said Suresh Nair, indirect tax partner, Consumer Products and Retail, EY India.

CONSUMERS who are not receiving the benefits of goods and services tax (GST) rate reductions can now raise their complaints with the National Consumer Helpline (NCH).

According to a government notification, consumers can call the toll-free number 1915 or send a WhatsApp message to 8800001915 to report grievances. In addition, complaints can also be registered online through the Integrated Grievance Redressal Mechanism (INGRAM) portal.

Meanwhile, to ensure smoother transitioning of GST reforms, the government has introduced several changes in the Invoice Management System (IMS), effective September 23, 2025, to further simplify GST procedures and reduce compliance burden for taxpayers.

As per the updates, taxpayers can now keep specified records (such as credit notes, amendments, debit notes, etc) pending for one tax period only. Those who file on a monthly basis, can keep them pending for one month, while those filing quarterly can do so for one quarter.

The records eligible for pending action include credit notes or amendments, downward amendments of invoices already accepted and filed in GSTR-3B, and ECO-document amendments. The advisory also clarifies rules on Input Tax Credit (ITC). Where the recipient has not availed ITC on a relevant invoice, no reversal will be required. In cases of partial claim of ITC, reversal will be limited to the amount actually availed. To enable this, IMS now offers a facility for taxpayers to declare the ITC availed and reverse it fully or partially, as applicable. The feature can also be used if reversal was already carried out earlier or where ITC was never availed.

'GST reduction to force repricing in insurance sector'

SANAL SUDEVAN @ Chennai

WELCOMING the GST rate reductions to 0% from 18% and making it affordable for the customers, Casparus JH Kromhout, CEO of Shriram Life, said on Tuesday the rate cuts will squeeze the margins for the companies and as it is not a high-margin industry.

Kromhout said this will necessitate product repricing in the near future. Speaking to TNIE, Kromhut added, "The challenge for the industry is that we still have input tax and now we don't have output tax coming in which we can offset. Effectively, it becomes cost to the industry and it affects our margin. As an industry we will be able manage it over time. It is a competitive industry and there is no high margin, which necessitates to product repricing."

He said the industry has been guided to pass on full benefit of GST cut but over time repricing needs to happen. "How much repricing needs to happen that individual company will have to calculate, and depending on impact on the margins, we will have to sit down and decide how much repricing we have to do," Kromhut said, adding that the company will have to some cost saving measures to mitigate the losses due to GST rate cuts.

Talking about 'Insurance for all by 2047', Kromhut said it will at least help the industry to grow 20% CAGR and it is challenging task as insurance industry is competitive. As per Economic Survey of 2024-25, life insurance cover only 40% of the households. He said, "If we want to cover 40% to 100%, then we have to focus on rural India. 20% of business industry is doing is actually from rural whereas between 60% and

About 70% of people reside in rural. As a company we are creating strategy which will help us scale in rural and lower-income segments. The industry is not focusing on both and we, as a company, finding ways to scale in these two segments." As per the company, Shriram Life Insurance Company's retail business grew at 24% in FY23, 39% in FY24 and 45% in FY25.

Three in race for deputy governor's post to be vacated by Rajeshwar Rao

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THREE executive directors of the Reserve Bank- SC Murmu, Vivek Deep and Rohit Jain - are in the race to succeed the senior most deputy governor M Rajeshwar Rao, whose term ends in October, according to sources.

Rao; in charge of the departments of regulation, enforcement, and legal, apart from coordination roles through the secretary's department, risk monitoring department, and overall policy coordination; was initially appointed in 2020 for three years, which was later extended twice. Sources told TNIE

Tuesday that the Financial Sector Regulatory Appointments Search Committee, which interviews the top management of the RBI and the Sebi have interviewed these three EDs over the weekend and now will recommend its most suitable name to the government.

Between January and May he was also in charge of the key monetary policy department after the government took too long to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Michael Patra on January 14 and Poonam Pandey, whose appointment was cleared in April, could join only early May.

A deputy governor is appointed by the Cabinet Committee on Appointments which is headed by the prime minister is not an RBI employee but that of the government.

The RBI Act 1934 mandates that the central bank to have four deputy governors two from within the ranks, one commercial banker, and one economist to head the monetary policy department.

INR falls 51 paise to all-time low of 88.79/USD

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

RUPEE on Tuesday tumbled 0.52% to all-time low of 88.7925 against the greenback amid foreign fund outflow on fear that double-whammy blows of steep US tariffs and an increase in the H-1B visa fees would disrupt services exports apart from crimping remittances.

The previous low was 88.47 on September 11. Traders are expecting pressure on the local currency to continue and a level under 90 is not very far. Rupee opened the day down 13 paise but soon lost ground, touching an all-time intraday low of 88.82 against dollar, and settling for the day at 88.7925.

Forex traders say rupee fell to record low as they see likely repercussions of the new $100,000 H-1B visa levy that may precipitate a slowdown in remittances growth and curtail service exports to the US, which is the largest revenue market for domestic IT firms netting more than 60% of their revenue.

Traders, however, say volatility expectations barely budged as the three-month dollar/rupee implied volatility was at six-month lows, and year-on-year volatility at a year-to-date low.

Implied volatility is a metric for pricing options, and typically rises when emerging market currencies hit lifetime lows, reflecting expectations of wider fluctuations. This has not been the scenario for rupee, which analysts attributed to increased participation of companies in options market and subdued offshore demand for options that bet on rupee fall. By hedging dollar with options, companies are supplying volatility to banks, contributing to subdued expectations for rupee swings.

Corporate activity in dollar/rupee options has surged 70% to $73 billion between January and August as against same period last year, a trader says citing the data from clearing platforms. Another trader with a private sector bank say conspicuously the RBI has been absent from the market for a while, which implies the monetary authority wants to help cushion the exporters' margin hit by the 50% levy on their shipments to the US customers.

"But what is to be noted is that while exporters gain a bit, the economy as a whole will be losing by way of imported inflation. This is more so for a nation that's is net importer, with import bill far outstripping the export billing. While a falling rupee may give a reprieve, in the long-run it will hurt us more," the trader cited above told TNIE, requesting not to be quoted.

JLR extends suspension of vehicle production till Oct 1 over cyber attack

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TATA Motors-owned Jaguar Land Rover (JLR) has extended suspension of vehicle production at its plants worldwide until October 1, 2025, as it continues to grapple with the aftermath of a crippling cyber incident that has disrupted operations for nearly a month.

The luxury carmaker confirmed that its factories in Merseyside in north-west England, Solihull in the West Midlands, and facilities in India, Slovakia and China remain at a standstill following an IT network shutdown. The British brand said in a statement the extension of production pause was intended to provide clarity for the coming week as it works on a phased restart plan.

"Today we have informed colleagues, suppliers and partners that we have extended the current pause in production until Wednesday October 1, 2025, following the cyber incident," JLR said. It added, "Our teams continue to work around clock alongside cybersecurity specialists, the NCSC and law enforcement to ensure we restart in a safe and secure manner."

The company said its focus is on supporting its customers, suppliers, and colleagues, as well as the car retailers, who remain open. "We recognise this is a difficult time for all connected with JLR and we thank everyone for their continued support and patience," the statement added.

Jaguar Land Rover

As per reports, the lingering shutdown is estimated to be costing the company tens of millions of pounds a day and has raised alarm over the impact on several firms in JLR's supply chain. Over 33,000 people are directly employed with JLR in the UK, across assembly lines at its factories, with an estimated 200,000 employed by hundreds of companies in the supply chain. A hacker group calling itself Scattered Lapsus$ Hunters has reportedly claimed responsibility for the attack. The group had earlier targeted major UK retailers, including Marks & Spencer and Co-op, in a string of high-profile cyber intrusions this year.

Swiggy exits Rapido, rakes in ₹2,400 crore

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

FOOD tech firm Swiggy has divested its entire 11.8% holding in Rapido, selling shares to Dutch investment firm Prosus NV and WestBridge Capital. Of the total transaction valued at ₹2,400 crore, Prosus's subsidiary MIH Investments One BV acquired shares worth ₹1,968 crore, while WestBridge Capital picked up remaining ₹431.5 crore portion, as shown in exchange filings on Tuesday.

The deals were executed on an arm's length basis and await customary approvals, including from the Competition Commission of India (CCI) and Swiggy's shareholders. Both Prosus and WestBridge are existing investors at the ride-hailing start-up.

Swiggy had earlier stated it would re-evaluate its investment in ride-hailing start-up Rapido, citing a potential conflict of interest as the mobility company recently entered the food delivery space. Rapido entered into food delivery in June through a pilot called 'Ownly' in Bengaluru, charging restaurants a fixed fee per order. Rapido recently signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the National Restaurants Association of India (NRAI), which represents over 50,000 eateries. Swiggy invested in Rapido in 2022. It held about a 12% stake in Rapido which was valued at around ₹1,020 crore before the stake sale.

OECD raises India's FY26 growth outlook to 6.7% despite tariff woes

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DESPITE tariff-related uncertainties, India's economic growth prospect in FY26 remains strong. OECD has revised upwards India's GDP estimate for FY26 to 6.7% from 6.3% earlier as it believed economic activities will be supported by monetary and fiscal policy easing.

S&P Global Ratings, meanwhile, has retained India's GDP forecast at 6.5% for FY26 on the back of strong demand, increasing investment, and tax reforms.

In its report on global economic outlook published on Tuesday, OECD has noted that while higher tariff rates will weigh on the country's exports sector, overall (economic) activity is anticipated to be supported by monetary and fiscal policy easing, including the reform to the Goods and Services Tax. However, the organisation has projected India's growth next year at a much lower rate of 6.2%. The 38-member international organisation in its report highlighted India's upside growth surprise in the first quarter of FY26 due to a steep fall in the growth of the GDP deflator in India.

The OECD report has also revised China's and US' economic growth estimates by 20 basis points to 4.9% and 1.8%, respectively.

RBI, fiscal policies to help

In its report on global economic outlook published on Tuesday, OECD has noted while higher tariff rates will weigh on the country's exports sector, overall (economic) activity is anticipated to be supported by monetary and fiscal policy easing, including the reform to GST

Rating agency S&P Global Ratings, meanwhile, has retained India's gross domestic product (GDP) forecast at 6.5% for (FY26) on the back of strong demand, increasing investment, and tax reforms.

"We forecast India's GDP growth to hold steady at 6.5% this financial year. We expect domestic demand to remain strong, supported by a largely benign monsoon season, cuts in the income and the goods and services tax (GST), and accelerating government investment," S&P said in a report on Tuesday. It has also revised India's inflation forecast down to 3.2% for FY26 after a sharper-than-expected decrease in food inflation.

TAIWAN

AUG EXPORT ORDERS BEAT FORECASTS ON AI DEMAND

Taiwan's export orders grew for the seventh straight month in August, fuelled by demand for tech products such as those related to artificial intelligence, but global trade uncertainty continues to cloud outlook. Export orders increased 19.5% in August on the year to $60.02 billion, the economic affairs ministry said on Tuesday, beating analysts' expectations for a 13% increase. Orders for goods from Taiwan, home to the world's largest contract chipmaker TSMC and other tech companies, are considered a bellwether of global technology demand. Taiwan's export performance this year could be affected as US President Donald Trump said he would impose a tariff of 20% on its goods. Taiwan's government said the 20% tariff is "temporary" as it continues to negotiate with the US for favourable rates. But orders momentum will be supported as new applications such as AI and high-performance computing continue to expand.

MALAYSIA

INFLATION RATE HITS 4-MONTH HIGH

Inflation in Malaysia grew 1.3% in August 2025, with the index points standing at 134.9, against 133.2 in the same month of the previous year, according to the Department of Statistics Malaysia (DOSM). The Consumer Price Index (CPI) for August 2025, DOSM stated the increase was driven by a higher increase in insurance and financial services, up 5.6 per cent from 5.5 per cent in July 2025. DOSM said the food and beverages group, which contributes 29.8% of the total CPI weight, grew 2% in August as compared to 1.9% in the preceding month. It noted that the inflation of food away from home remained at 4.3% as compared to the previous month, while food at home decreased to negative 0.1% in August from minus 0.3% in July. Chief statistician Datuk Seri Dr Mohd Uzir Mahidin said 59.7% of items (342 out of 573) in the CPI basket recorded price increases.

INDONESIA

PARLIAMENT PASSES $231B BUDGET FOR 2026

Indonesia's parliament on Tuesday approved President Prabowo Subianto's proposed budget for 2026, which includes spending of 3,842.7 trillion rupiah (US$231.5 bn or RM970 bn) and forecasts fiscal deficit at 2.68% of GDP. The budget assumes economic growth of 5.4%, up from the 2025 target of 5.2%, and has a revenue target of 3,153.6 trillion rupiah. Proposed spending for 2026 is 9% higher than estimated total spending for 2025, with the revenue target also up about 10% from the 2025 outlook. The budget deficit for 2026 would be lower than the forecast for this year at 2.78% of GDP, below a limit of 3% set by law. Ahead of the vote, the chair of the budget committee, Said Abdullah, told parliament the budget would enable government to begin a turnaround. The budget includes an expansion of Prabowo's flagship programme of free meals for students and pregnant women, and increased defence spending.

India are still locked in battle at the Asia Cup but the attention will turn towards the beginning of the home season over the next few days or so. On Wednesday, the Ajit Agarkar-led selection panel will meet to decide the squad for the two-match Test series against West Indies. A look at the combinations and the players that will be in focus...

FOCUS ON COMBINATION AHEAD OF WINDIES TEST

WHAT ABOUT BUMRAH

Jasprit Bumrah played only three of the five Tests in England and is a lock to feature in the business end of the Asia Cup. Considering that event finishes on September 28 — four days before the first Test — the pacer could well be rested for the first Test if not the series itself. Given the long-term focus of India's home Summer will be centred around retaining the World T20 title, Bumrah's minutes may be managed. Which is why it won't be a surprise if he plays a prominent role in India's white ball matches heading into that tournament.

SIRAJ TO SHARE NEW BALL

Irrespective of whether Bumrah plays or not, it's safe to assume that Mohammed Siraj, given an extended break following his exploits in England, will take the new ball at Ahmedabad. Who will his partner be? That's the bigger question for the selectors to answer and they can go multiple ways. Akash Deep has the nous and the experience, Prasidh Krishna, who went wicketless in the first unofficial Test, is another game.

JUREL FIRST-CHOICE BEHIND THE STUMPS

With Rishabh Pant still recovering from the foot injury he sustained in England, Dhruv Jurel will be the man behind the stumps for both games. He's more than a capable bat (and is in good form with a 140 in the first unofficial Test against the visiting Australia A squad last week) and understands India's spinners well. There could be a bit of scramble for India's reserve keeper if India wants to name one; N Jagadeesan played that role in England and may reprise that role as he brings additional value as reserve opener.

THE LEAD SPINNERS

The last time India played a Test at home, there was the gigantic presence of R Ashwin. With his retirement, there's one gaping hole. Washington Sundar played alongside Ashwin in that series against New Zealand. This time, expect the southpaw to play as one of the lead actors. Ravindra Jadeja selects himself but what about the other slots? Kuldeep Yadav and/or Axar Patel are the other two frontline spinners who should at least make the squad. There is the tantalising prospect of playing all of them as three of them are genuine all-rounders but will the hosts want to go there?

When India's last home season began, they had Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli, Sarfaraz Khan, Rishabh Pant and KL Rahul in the top six. Injuries (Pant), retirements (Sharma and Kohli), falling out of favour (Khan) mean only Rahul is set to be retained but even he will be in a different position. However, the irony is the batting wears a settled look with Yashasvi Jaiswal, Rahul, Gill, Washington, Jadeja and Jurel likely to play in the top seven. The management moved Karun Nair and B Sai Sudharsan moved around in England but expect the latter to retain his place at three at least to begin the summer. So the attention may probably move towards who the selectors decide for the primary reserve middle-order bat. Devdutt Padikkal has been in good form and is already capped at this level. Shreyas Iyer could be an enticing option but having pulled out of the second unofficial Test on the morning of the game, one wonders if he will be available. Rajat Patidar, having just led Central Zone to the title in the Duleep Trophy, could be a left-field choice.

Important series for multiple reasons

IN isolation, a home series against the West Indies to begin a crunch season ahead of an ICC event doesn't seem that daunting. But peel back the layers and the magnitude of the series cannot be overstated. For all of the team's recent white-ball prowess, their red-ball skills have come under fire. Having won just one of the last four Test series (it came against Bangladesh), Gautam Gambhir and Co have to show they can excel in this format as well. This is also a new look team, especially at home and they will look to get into red-ball groove before the world champions visit next year.

Experience with a blend of youth

ICC WOMEN'S CRICKET WORLD CUP INDIA 2025 — 6 DAYS TO GO

WITH SIX DAYS TO GO FOR THE WOMEN'S ODI WORLD CUP, A LOOK AT THE NEW ZEALAND AND PAKISTAN SQUADS FOR THE TOURNAMENT...

Sophie Devine with the T20 title | ICC

Fatima Sana

NEW ZEALAND

Strength: In Sophie Devine and Suzie Bates, they have the experience with Amelia Kerr taking charge of the next generation. Their bowling attack is full of quality pacers led by Lea Tahuhu. Having won the T20 World Cup last year, they will be keen to give Devine, Bates and Tahuhu the trophy they had longed and waited for almost two decades.

Drawback: Barring Amelia, the quality of spin is a bit of a concern, especially on pitches that offer turn. They struggled in Sri Lanka last year. The two games they play there, against Sri Lanka and Pakistan, could be crucial in the round robin format. It will come down to how the likes of Maddy Green, Brooke Halliday and others step up.

Squad: Devine (c), Bates, Carson, Devonshire, Gaze, Green, Halliday, Illing, Inglis, James, Melie, Jess, Mair, Plimmer, Tahuhu

PAKISTAN

Strength: They will play all their matches at one venue — Colombo, which gives them the time to acclimatise and make the most of it. They have a young captain in Fatima Sana who has taken upon every responsibility that has come her way. She will be relying on Sidra Amin and other seniors to come good when it matters the most.

Drawback: Their record when it comes to global event is not rosy. They have the experience in spin attack but the problem will be the intent with the bat. While turning tracks may even out the contest, Pakistan have struggled to post respectable totals on batting-friendly conditions. They need Muneeba Ali to have a really good tournament with the bat.

Squad: Fatima (c), Muneeba (vc), Aliya, Diana, Eyman, Nashra, Natalia, Omaima, Rameen, Sadaf, Sadia, Shawaal, Sidra, Nawaz, Syeda Aroob Shah. Reserves: Gull Feroza, Najiha Alvi, Tuba Hassan, Umm-e-Hani, Waheeda Akhtar

At the ongoing Asia Cup, team management have shifted away from their usual plans with respect to the pacer; it may affect end overs balance if it doesn't come off

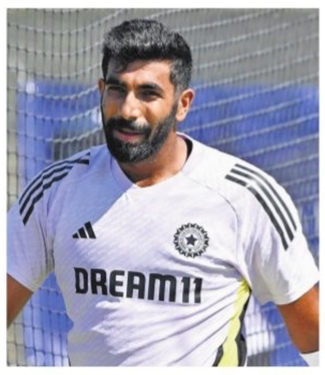
The Bumrah equation

GOMESH S @ Chennai

JASPRIT Bumrah was walking back to his bowling mark with a wry smile on his face. He had just watched Shubman Gill drop Pakistan's Faheem Ashraf in the deep on the fifth ball of the penultimate over in their Super 4 clash.

It had been that kind of a day. The ace pacer had gone for 34 runs in his first three overs — all in the powerplay — before finishing with 0/45. It was the most runs he had ever given in a T20 powerplay and only the fourth time he finished with more than ten runs per over in a full spell. For any other bowler, it was just a bad day out. Not Bumrah; he is not like any other bowler. Bumrah going for as many runs as he did and not taking any wickets is an anomaly. However, there is one common thing when it comes to Bumrah at this Asia Cup. Unlike before, India has been front-loading him in the powerplay, bowling at least three overs with the new ball. This is not how Bumrah is usually used. He used to bowl one or two overs up front and come back later to bowl in the second half of the innings.

In all three games he has played this Asia Cup, Bumrah has bowled all three up front in the first six overs. Though the UAE and the group match against Pakistan was not much of a contest, the Super 4s game showed why it might not be the best option when it comes to big games at least.



Ace pacer Jasprit Bumrah had gone for 34 runs in India's win | FILEPIC

According to skipper Suryakumar Yadav, the rationale behind it is to use Bumrah as an attacking option. "If he picks two wickets, even if he bowls a tight spell of his overs, later on we can have a good cushion for all the spinners to come over and make our job a little easier," he had said after the first win over Pakistan. After the Super 4s match against Pakistan, Yadav said: That's fine, he's not a robot, he will have a bad day someday. Shivam Dube bailed us out of the situation." The thing about using Bumrah up front is that it leaves only one over from him and forces the skipper to use Dube and Pandya to the fullest if the spinners go for runs. That becomes the clause here — if the spinners have a bad day. In Axar Patel, Varun Chakravarthy and Kuldeep Yadav, India have 12 overs in the bank, and when those 12 overs cannot be used, Dube and Pandya come into the picture.

In saying that, India do have the luxury of resting Arshdeep Singh, who might come in for Bumrah in the next two games. Which begs the question, something that was asked when the squad was picked, whether India needed Bumrah for this tournament, especially with the home Test season getting underway. That, however, is for later.

For now, it has all worked out well for India, but if Dube does have a poor outing, which is not out of the realm of things, then things might get tricky. The clashes against Bangladesh and Sri Lanka will give a better idea in the coming days. And if Bumrah does play and have days similar to those he had against Pakistan, it might force the team management to rethink the strategy on how to make the most of the luxury that is Jasprit Bumrah.

Can B'desh push the limits?

India have won every match they have played but Litton Das' team will be looking to stop them. A look...

IS IT RINKU'S TIME?

Though the team management has preferred Tilak Varma, with the tournament nearing its business end Rinku Singh might come into the picture. Having Rinku might just provide a better balance especially with Sanju Samson batting in the middle-order. It will be interesting to see if Gautam Gambhir and Co try and change the combination in the middle.

TACKLING MUSTAFIZUR

The left-arm seamer has been a handful in these conditions and will be a challenge for the explosive Indian openers. If Rahman is able to deceive Abhishek Sharma and Shubman Gill, they might have a crack at the unexposed Indian middle-order. However, it will not be easy as both the batters have shown solidity at the top.

EYES ON LITTON

After the fifty against Hong Kong, the skipper has not done much with the bat and will be keen to make an impact in this match A win against India will set the course towards the final smoother. In the past, he has shown the ability to take on top Indian bowlers and if he does, it will augur well for the team.

Super 4s: Talat guides Pak to 5-wicket win

AGENCIES @ Abu Dhabi

HUSSAIN Talat's all-round show, in addition to Mohammad Nawaz's measured knock helped Pakistan to a five-wicket win over Sri Lanka in the Asia cup Super 4s match here on Tuesday.

Chasing a target of 134, Pakistan lost a few early wickets but their middle order came to the rescue. Earlier, the Pakistan pacers put the Sri Lankan batters through the wringer despite Kamindu Mendis' fine fifty, restricting them for a vastly under-par 133/8.

Hussain Talat plays a shot against Sri Lanka in the Asia Cup on Tuesday | AFP

Sent in to bat, Sri Lanka made a woeful start, losing inform Kusal Mendis in the second ball, and an over later Pathum Nissanka, their most consistent batter in the tournament, too walked back. Sri Lanka never really recovered from those early strikes.

Shaheen Shah Afridi (3/28) made most of the conditions. Nissanka smashed Afridi for a maximum but edged the very next ball to wicketkeeper Mohammad Haris as Sri Lanka slipped to 18/2. But skipper Charith Asalanka and Kusal Perera effected a mini recovery through a 25-run alliance for the third wicket but the stand did not last further. Brief scores: SL 133/8 in 20 ovs (Mendis 50; Afridi 3/28, Talat 2/18) lost to PAK 138/5 in 18 ovs (Nawaz 38 n.o, Talat 32 n.o; Theekshana 2/24).

Gukesh getting used to role as world champion: Anand

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

FIVE-TIME World chess champion Vishwanathan Anand believed that World Champion Gukesh will recover well before defending his title in the upcoming World Cup in Goa starting October 31.

Ever since he won the world crown, Gukesh's form has been up and down and questions over his capability to defend his title has risen. "He is having a bumpy time for sure. In the Swiss Grand, it was a bit extreme because he needs to win a lot of games. It could have been a combination of factors. I was still optimistic (after his performance in) Norway Chess, but after that, I think he is having a difficult time. But he has a whole year to get ready," Anand told this daily, in an awards function hosted by CREDAI.

Contrary to opinions of others over Gukesh's lack of consistency, Anand felt that he is getting used to the spotlight and the pressure that comes along with being a World Champion. "No, I don't think you have tactical blips. You just play well. I think you can, but he's also adjusting, struggling. The chess scene is very competitive now. I think he is also getting used to his role as world champion. This puts the spotlight and the pressure. It's a different experience and I think he's getting used to that. But I hope he will recover well," the 55-year-old said before adding, "I appreciate that he has the confidence to keep accepting new challenges, not to hide. He's going to play in the World Cup and I'm sure he will keep pushing till he gets back to his form.

MD of Super Chennai Ranjeeth Rathod (L), V Anand and VP of CREDAI Sridharan

"The role of Seconds in this tournament will be crucial. "Each will decide for themselves who the Seconds should be. But yes, they play a very important role," said Anand without revealing who could be assisting Gukesh in his title defense. Anand was happy with the way R Vaishali has got back herself up after a disastrous Chennai Grandmasters tournament last month. He was all praise for defending the Grand Swiss title, which concluded on September 15."Yes, she had a remarkable recovery after her (Chennai Grandmasters) tournament here. And somehow I think she felt freer. Sometimes when the pressure is off, you play well. And she was able to do that and it is a great result for her to qualify for the Candidates (next year)," he explained.

FAR BELOW THE SURFACE, THE EARTH'S MANTLE IS CHURNING HEAT, MOVING CONTINENTS, SPARKING QUAKES, AND EVEN LIFTING THE HIMALAYAS, ENSURING THAT THE PLANET IS ANYTHING BUT STILL

Himalayan collisions

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

WHEN one stands before the towering peaks of the Himalayas, gazing skyward at their snow-laced summits, it is natural to marvel at their sheer scale and beauty. But the true grandeur of the Earth's mountains does not begin at the surface, nor does it end at the ridgelines we can see. Far beneath the crust we tread upon lies a lesser-known world — a landscape of titanic forces, slow convulsions, and even, quite astonishingly, mountains of a very different kind. Within the Earth's mantle, beyond the reach of sunlight or storm, hidden mountains rise and fall, reshaping the planet in profound ways. Their story is one that remains largely invisible, but is integral to the very existence of ranges like the Himalayas.

To understand these subterranean mountains, one must first appreciate the mantle itself. The Earth's structure is layered like an onion. Beneath the crust —our thin and fragile outer shell — lies the mantle, an immense zone of rock stretching down some 2,900 km to the outer core. Though it is solid rock, the mantle behaves plastically over geological time, convecting like a slow-moving fluid. This movement is driven by heat from the core and the gradual cooling of the planet, producing currents that cycle matter upwards and downwards over tens of millions of years. The upper mantle, in particular, is vital to the theory of plate tectonics. It is here that the lithospheric plates, which are rigid slabs of crust and uppermost mantle, float atop the more ductile asthenosphere. These plates drift and collide, forming the familiar geography of continents and ocean basins. But deep within the lower mantle, far from surface tumult, newer discoveries have revealed that the landscape is anything but featureless. In fact, researchers now believe there are "mountains" within the mantle — vast undulations and ridges that mark boundaries between different compositional or temperature regions.

These internal mountains are not formed by erosion or weathering. Instead, they are born of immense pressure, seismic discontinuities, and material transitions within the mantle itself. One of the most significant of these is the so-called 660-km boundary, a region where the properties of the rock change abruptly. Seismic waves, generated by earthquakes, slow down or speed up when they pass through this layer, giving scientists clues about the structures hidden below. In recent years, studies using seismic tomography, akin to a CT scan of the planet, have suggested that this boundary is not flat but rather corrugated, rippled with mountains that rival or surpass the size of anything on the surface.

These mountains within the Earth's mantle vary significantly in height, with some peaks reaching approximately 40 km and others, such as the "large low-shear-velocity provinces" (LLSVPs), reaching around 1,000 km, or roughly 100 times the height of Mount Everest.

Why do such mountains exist in the mantle? One major reason lies in the subduction of tectonic plates. When an oceanic plate plunges beneath a continental plate — as is happening where the Indian Plate dives under the Eurasian Plate — the descending slab sinks into the mantle. However, it does not always glide smoothly. Sometimes it stalls at the 660-km boundary, piling up and creating a bottleneck of rock. This pile-up can form large-scale structures, adding to the unevenness of the mantle's internal topography. Just as snow might bank against a wall, so too does the Earth's crust collect and deform within the depths of the mantle.

These internal structures are not static. Over millions of years, they can rise or fall, driven by the slow circulation of the mantle. Some may last for aeons, while others may eventually be assimilated, melting into the greater mantle flow. Their impact on the surface, however, is immense. They can influence volcanic activity, affect the behaviour of tectonic plates, and even alter the topography of the Earth's crust.

The mountains within the mantle vary significantly in height

THIS brings us to the Himalayas, a region not just shaped by surface collisions, but by the powerful dynamics of the mantle below. The Indian Plate began its journey northward some 120 million years ago, after breaking away from the ancient supercontinent of Gondwana. As it moved at an astonishing pace geologically speaking, it eventually collided with the Eurasian Plate around 50 million years ago. This monumental crash forced the crust upwards, birthing the Himalayan mountain range, the tallest in the world.

But the story does not end at the crust. The Indian Plate continues to push northwards to this day, at a rate of about 5 cm per year. As it does, it bends and sinks beneath the Tibetan Plateau, creating not only surface uplift, but also complex interactions within the mantle. Beneath the Himalayas, seismic imaging shows anomalies — zones of high-velocity material interpreted as the descending Indian lithosphere. This descending slab stalls, fractures, and folds deep within the mantle, likely contributing to the formation of those unseen mountains near the 660-km discontinuity.

Moreover, the very existence of such a boundary affects how and where the Indian Plate can continue to sink. In some areas, the slab may break apart, sending fragments deeper into the mantle, while in others it may remain trapped. These differences in behaviour create stress patterns and feedback loops that influence how the crust buckles, rises, or even shifts laterally over time. In this way, mantle mountains help dictate the rhythm and nature of orogeny, i.e. the process of mountain building, on the surface.

It is tempting to think of mountains as features that scrape the sky, but the Earth's geology is as much a matter of depth as it is of height. The true scale of the Himalayas extends far beneath the surface, into the dark and pressurised world of the mantle. Here, invisible peaks and valleys play out a drama of unimaginable forces, guiding the movement of continents and the evolution of our planet.

One day, perhaps, technology will allow us to see these inner landscapes with clarity. For now, they remain the province of seismic echoes and mathematical models — ephemeral, but no less real. Just as astronomers infer the existence of distant planets from the wobble of a star, geophysicists read the whispers of earthquakes to chart the terrain of the planet's interior.

In the end, the mountains beneath our feet may never be climbed, but they shape the world we know. Their influence reverberates through the crust, dictating the rise of ranges, the flow of magma, and the tremble of the ground. The Himalayas may be our most visible monument to geological power, but they owe their existence in part to a deeper and stranger architecture, a landscape of ancient ridges hidden in stone, forever unseen, yet quietly, ceaselessly at work.

GREENING DESERTS FOR BETTER FOOD SECURITY

A new research holds much promise for desert agriculture to flourish. Published in the Journal of Bioresources and Bioproducts, it shows food waste-derived nanocellulose boosts sandy soil water retention, nutrient storage, and plant survival in deserts. It demonstrated how pineapple peels can be transformed into nanocellulose fibres which can dramatically improve the properties of sandy soils to make them conducive for desert agriculture. A team of international researchers, led by Department of Chemical Engineering, Khalifa University of Science & Technology in Abu Dhabi, used mechano-chemical treatment to convert pineapple peels into fibres through processes like shredding, alkali processing, bleaching, and ball milling. The treatment yielded pineapple peel fibres from macro to nanoscale, which were tested in lithic, quartz-rich, and calcareous sand types commonly found in the deserts of the United Arab Emirates. To their pleasant surprise, they found that the nanocellulose pineapple peel fibres-treated desert soil could hold 32.7% more water while reducing permeability by 58% in comparison to the untreated sand. They also observed that the rate of evaporation slowed by over 50%, while soil cohesion and compressive strength improved four-fold. But what struck the researchers as most impressive was that the nutrient retention also increased, with phosphorus retention doubling in the fibre-treated sands. The researchers also tested crop-growing abilities in the treated desert sand, and found that plants showed higher survival rates with more leaves, and healthier development compared to the untreated sands. But, excess fibre use was found to be counterproductive to plant survival, highlighting the importance of its optimal use in quantitative terms. Besides, nanocellulose fibres in the sandy soil did not yield microbial activity like compost-treated soil does. The bonus is that it encourages a circular bioeconomy, in which food waste can be repurposed into high-value agricultural inputs instead of ending up in landfills.

In the digital age, few names hold as much significance as Tim Berners-Lee. Often referred to as the inventor of the World Wide Web (WWW), his contributions have transformed the way humanity communicates, shares information, and conducts everyday life. Without his vision, the internet as we know it would likely be unrecognisable.

Born in London in 1955, Sir Tim Berners-Lee was raised in a household that valued mathematics and logic — both of his parents worked on the first commercial computers. He studied physics at the University of Oxford and later began working at CERN, the European Organization for Nuclear Research. It was there, in 1989, that he proposed a revolutionary system to manage and share information across different computers: the World Wide Web.

At its core, Berners-Lee's invention was built on three fundamental technologies: HTML (Hypertext Markup Language), HTTP (Hypertext Transfer Protocol), and URLs (Uniform Resource Locators). These tools allowed users to create, access, and navigate information seamlessly. By 1991, the first website went live, and the digital world would never be the same.

Importantly, Berners-Lee made a pivotal decision early on — not to patent or commercialise the Web. Instead, he chose to make it free and open, believing that access to information should be a universal right. This decision enabled the Web's rapid and global expansion, fostering innovation, collaboration, and social change.

Beyond inventing the Web, Berners-Lee has remained a passionate advocate for internet freedom and data privacy. He founded the World Wide Web Consortium (W3C) to ensure web standards remain open and inclusive. In recent years, he has championed projects like Solid, which aim to give users control over their personal data.

Today, Sir Tim Berners-Lee is celebrated not just for inventing the Web, but for safeguarding its integrity. His vision continues to shape our connected world, reminding us that technology, when guided by ethics and inclusivity, can truly empower humanity.

HOW IT WORKS

ROLE OF CALCIUM & pH IN PROGRESS OF CANCER CELLS

BOSKY KHANNA

RESEARCHERS have found that calcium and pH play a crucial role in the progress and collapse of cancer cells.

When ovarian cancer spreads, it often happens through floating clusters of cells called 'spheroids', which drift through the abdominal cavity. To understand how these structures emerge and influence cancer spread, researchers from the National Centre for Biological Sciences (NCBS) and the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) undertook detailed studies.

Sreepadmanabh M and the team from Dr Tapomoy Bhattacharjee's lab at NCBS, along with Dr Ramray Bhat from IISc, discovered that spheroids are unique in their form. While some resemble solid, misshapen masses known as 'moruloids', others appear as smooth, hollow, mulberry-like structures called 'blastuloids'.

The study, titled Distinct Chemical Cues Reprogram Cellular and Multicellular Phenotypes in Ovarian Cancer Spheroids, was published in journal Small on September 16, 2025.

The researchers found that calcium and pH dictate whether cancer spheroids hold together, fall apart, or rebuild themselves. In particular, hollow blastuloids were observed to undergo periodic volume fluctuations — their central cavity would pulse, collapse, and recover over time. This recovery was driven by the E-cadherin junctions that bind cells together, whose stability depends on calcium.

By adjusting calcium levels, researchers could flip the spheroids between completely different states. A sudden removal of calcium caused blastuloids to collapse into solid moruloid-like masses. Remarkably, restoring calcium made the hollow structure reappear far faster than it initially formed.

"Even when spheroids were completely disassembled into single cells, they rapidly reassembled into complex hollow forms in just two days — a feat that normally takes more than a week," says Sreepadmanabh, adding, "Once the cells formed a blastuloid, the next time they remember how to rebuild it much faster."

Regarding pH, the team found it also played a significant role. Cancer spheroids are often found in acidic ascitic fluid inside the abdomen. When exposed to acidic pH (~6), blastuloids paused their pulsations but retained their hollow shape. In contrast, alkaline conditions (pH ~8.5) collapsed them into solid forms. This too was reversible when pH returned to normal.

"Simple chemical cues from the environment govern whether cancer cells stay together, fall apart, or reorganise," the report states.

"Cancer is sculpted by the chemistry of its surroundings. With just two knobs — calcium and pH — we can tune the form and fate of entire cell collectives," concludes Dr Bhattacharjee.

ANJALI RAM

GOMBE HABBA is more than just a decorative exercise. Living rooms are being transformed into miniature museums of dolls and figurines, meticulously arranged in tiers, all part of a tradition rooted in creativity and community.

For Priya Rajaram, who left behind a corporate career to pursue art, the doll festival is an extension of personal memories. "I grew up watching my mother do gombe every year. It was also a time when all the books in the house would end up on the golu stand and you found yourself reading them more than setting things up," she reminisces.

Rajaram uses her mother's clay dolls and repurposed bottles to create quirky figurines. "Every doll has a story to tell. We love panipuri and travelling, and so our quirky collection includes a panipuri seller and the Mario Miranda figurines inspired by our Goa trip," she explains.

Other highlights are tiny Lord Ganeshas with musical instruments, hyper-realistic Krishnanagar dolls and Chettiyar dolls. "The Maa Durga with baby Ganesha is made using fired clay technique – it's just two hollows brought together using a particular gurjan oil to make the dolls lightweight," she further shares.

At Untitled Arts in JP Nagar, Anuradha HR turns her family's Mysuru-rooted tradition into an exhibition. With more than 4,000 dolls collected over decades, she curates themes each year. "We do an installation symbolising one of the major events that has occurred in India. This year, we chose Operation Sindoor to honour our armed forces," she highlights. The figurines are placed alongside 100-year-old Marapachi dolls and Ravana effigies.

On Vijayadashami, the public can visit and burn Ravana effigies, symbolising elimination of the evil.

For some, the festival is a canvas of artistic imagination. Animator Krupa Sunil has been creating thematic gombe displays for 16 years. This year, the focus being the festivals in India, with handmade sets of Ashtalakshmi and Navadurgas and the concept of Mysuru procession. "I've used plastic dolls with blinking eyes that children play with," she explains, adding, "The saree, jewellery and the decor have been made from the scratch." Rajaram agrees on the sustainability factor, stating, "I want to show that dolls need not always be bought. They can be handmade, recycled and carry stories of their own."

Not all themes are rooted in the past. Lalitha Prasad, who has been keeping gombe for 15 years and has over a thousand dolls, decided to highlight women's cricket in her display with a miniature stadium. She, along with her daughter, wanted their stand to reflect the changing face of sports and society. "Women now get good jobs through cricket. It is important we show that in our gombe too," she stresses.

The centrepiece of many homes continues to be the Marapachi dolls, wooden figures often handed down across generations. Believed to have originated in Tamil Nadu and adopted into Karnataka's culture, these dolls are typically dressed in silk. "Mine are over 100 years old which I inherited from my mother," exclaims 48-year-old Anuradha, reconnecting to her roots.

At the scale of a small museum, Anupama Hoskere's display has over 10,000 dolls. A veteran puppeteer, she weaves together mythology, history and contemporary imagination.

This year, her themes include Kashmir tourism, circus life for children unfamiliar with it and a live Kolata dance experience where visitors can participate. "We thought of giving our space a twist that shows the other side of the union territory," she says.

1. Dasara is observed as the 'Nada Habba' (state festival) of Karnataka. The 10-day-long festival, also known as Navaratri, ends with Vijayadasami. The Dasara celebrations started with the Vijayanagara kings during the 14th century and reached their magnificence during the 15th and 16th centuries. What was the capital of the Vijayanagara empire during this time?

2. After the fall of the Vijayanagara empire, the Wodeyars of Mysuru followed the tradition of celebrating Dasara in a grand way from Raja Wodeyar's time in 1610, commemorating the killing of the demon Mahishasura by Goddess Chamundeshwari (Durga). Interestingly, the name Mysuru is derived from 'Mahishasurana Uru', which means the town of Mahishasura. Name the Booker Prize winner who inaugurated this year's Dasara festivities in Mysuru: Arundhati Roy or Banu Mushtaq?

3. While Mysuru celebrates Dasara with much pomp and grandeur, a locality in Bengaluru too celebrates its own Dasara festivities with much fervour, which beckons thousands of people from around the city. The Bengaluru Dasara was started by the erstwhile Mysore Lancers and Mysore Infantry, who lived in the area, and was popularly known as 'People's Dasara'. Name the locality.

Vaishnavi Dhore recently brought Bahinabai Chaudhari's work to life with a performance at BIC

Poems of Maharashtrian poet-farmer Bahinabai Chaudhari, who lived between 1880 and 1951, took on a new life in a performance by dancer Vaishnavi Dhore

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

AT a time when women, especially widows, had few means, Bahinabai Chaudhari, a poor Maharashrian farmer, faced her circumstances with grit and resilience. As she worked to sustain her three children and herself, she composed Ovi (lyrical folks songs made of couplets) in the Khandeshi dialect, capturing the beauty of the earth. "She was illiterate, still she recited such beautiful words, which are now being studied in universities. For example, in one of them, she says the soil is like a blanket that mother earth has wrapped around the fields, and when the seeds buried underneath sprout, they are like her goosebumps. She has such beautiful imagery in her poems," explains Bharatanatyam dancer Vaishnavi Dhore, adding, "The only reason we have her work now is because her son wrote them down when she recited them to him".

Dhore recently brought Chaudhari's work to life with a performance titled Bahinabai Chaudhari – The Voice of the Soil at Bangalore International Centre (BIC), Domlur, and plans to return in January.

The songs convey a bouquet of moods, with verses, in Dhore's words, speaking of 'spirituality, being a common woman and even the smallest things in nature'. As she explains, "I selected the songs according to their moods and imagery. One speaks of motherhood, while the next is a fun one about the changeable reactions of the mind and another about being separated from her husband and learning to stand up for herself. There are so many poems that we had to leave out a few because they didn't suit for dance."

The performance saw Chaudhari's songs set to music composed by Dhore's collaborator-singer Shruthi Veena Vishwanath and played by artistes on the dotara, ghatam and nattuvangam. For her dance, she tried to bring out the physicality of a farmer. "As my body has been trained in Bharatanatyam for 24 years, my vocabulary is Bharatanatyam, but I tried to challenge myself by trying to convey the body language of a farmer through this vocabulary – how can I best the cutting of crops, the goosebumps and the sprouts?" To bridge the language barrier and weave a story from the verses, the Khandeshi songs were interspersed with narrations in English.

Starting with Delhi last year, Dhore has taken the performance to cities across India; however, Bengaluru is the first to witness it with live music. Despite most outside Maharashtra being unfamiliar with Chaudhari, Dhore says her poetry has found resonance everywhere. "There are people who get emotional. It has also been amazing to hear from audiences that they are going back and researching Chaudhari and her poems for themselves."

CREATINE: THE OVERLOOKED NUTRIENT THAT FUELS STRENGTH AND RECOVERY

When people think of nutrition, the focus is usually on proteins, healthy fats, and complex carbohydrates. But there is another nutrient, less discussed but highly impactful for performance and recovery — creatine. While often associated with supplements, creatine is also a natural part of the body's energy system.

WHAT IS CREATINE?

Creatine is a compound the body naturally produces and stores in muscles. It plays a key role in generating Adenosine Triphosphate (ATP), the molecule that fuels muscle contractions. Each day, a portion of creatine is broken down into creatinine and eliminated through urine, which means the body needs a regular supply from diet or synthesis to maintain optimal levels.

Protein-rich foods like meat and fish are the primary dietary sources. A typical omnivorous diet provides one to two grams of creatine per day. Vegetarians may have lower levels since plant-based foods lack creatine, though this also means they may experience more noticeable benefits if supplementation is introduced.

HOW DOES CREATINE HELP?

Creatine supports strength, endurance and recovery. It helps muscles produce quick bursts of energy, making it particularly useful for high-intensity activities like sprinting or weight training.

Research highlights several benefits:

- Enhanced exercise performance
- Faster recovery after intense workouts
- Reduced risk and severity of injury
- Improved tolerance to heavy training loads
- Increased lean muscle mass during training

HOW MUCH IS NEEDED?

Most adults require between 1 and 3 grams of creatine daily, half from diet and the rest synthesised by the body. One pound of beef or salmon contains roughly 1 to 2 grams. According to the International Society of Sports Nutrition, athletes engaged in intense training may require 5 to 10 grams per day, while individuals with certain health conditions that limit creatine synthesis might need higher amounts under medical supervision.

WHEN TO TAKE CREATINE?

On training days, creatine can be taken shortly before, after, or even at times unrelated to workouts. Some people split the dosage across the day. On rest days, it is best consumed with meals to help maintain muscle stores. Consistency matters more than precise timing.

ARE THERE SIDE EFFECTS?

For most healthy adults, creatine is safe when taken in recommended amounts. However, excessive use can occasionally cause issues such as stomach discomfort, diarrhea, headaches, or weight gain. Rarely, kidney problems may arise, especially in individuals with pre-existing conditions.

ADITHI REENA AJITH

SUNDEEP Misra, author, Gunned Down: Murder of an Olympic Champion, (AuthorsUpFront, ₹399) first heard of the name Prithipal Singh, when he was a schoolboy making a list of top-ten hockey players with his father in the late '70s. Misra knew of Dhyan Chand, Balbir Singh, Leslie Claudius, but Prithipal's name, who his father insisted belonged in the top five, was new to him.

Prithipal was a major name in Indian hockey at the 1960s Olympics. "He was this big personality. He had a cult following around him, like the way he used to score off those penalty corner hits and generally his play on field," Misra recalls. In 1983, when Misra read that Prithipal had been shot dead on the Punjab Agricultural University (PAU) campus, that memory returned. "It was always at the back of my mind. But barely out of school, I never had an inkling that one day I would write a book or become a journalist," notes Misra.

The book traces the hockey star's life from his childhood in Nankana Sahib in Pakistan, and the family's move to Amritsar amid the upheaval of Partition, to his triumphs on the Olympic field – Rome 1960 (silver), Tokyo 1964 (gold), and Mexico City 1968 (bronze). It follows his later years as a teacher at Punjab Agricultural University, leading up to his assassination on the campus.

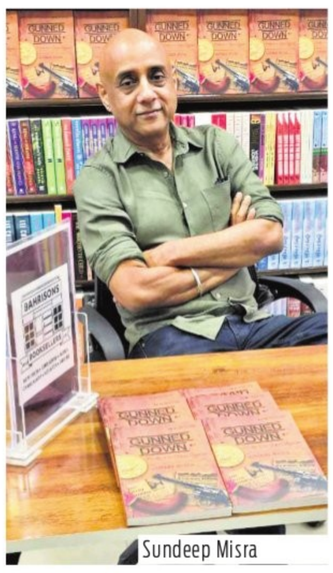
Writing it was anything but easy. Records and archives were sparse, and many of Prithipal's contemporaries had passed away, making it hard to piece together the man behind the player. "When I started looking for material, there was almost nothing. Unlike in the US, where archives on sports in the 1950s and '60s, especially heavyweight boxing, are endless, Indian sports history offers only match reports: 'Prithipal scored three goals.' Nothing about the man himself," Misra says.

The book points out that Prithipal is perhaps 'the only Olympic gold medallist' in India to be assassinated. And yet, his story remains largely absent from public memory. This only deepened Misra's determination, because for him Gunned Down is not just about one man but the erasure of history.

Some may say that four decades on, the moment has passed. Misra disagrees. "I don't think there's a right or wrong time to tell such stories," he says. "India's Sports literature is so thin. If we don't document these lives, they will disappear."

A polarising figure

Part of what makes Prithipal's story so compelling is how divided memories of him remain. To some, he was a fearless goalscorer and a strict disciplinarian. To others, he was authoritarian, even abusive, as an administrator at PAU. Misra offers a neutral portrait: a man admired on the hockey field for his fierce game and strong morals, but also feared as by those wary of his temper. His research draws on interviews – from Charanjit Singh, a member of the 1964 Olympic team who recalled Prithipal's personality and valour, to an anonymous source who admitted being part of the group behind Prithipal's murder, showing no remorse for the act.



Sundeep Misra

"For me, the job wasn't to take sides," he says, when asked about handling these contradictions. "I decided not to filter people's memories through my own judgement. My role was to present him as he was remembered. Let readers decide."

Chasing shadows

On and off, the book took over six years to research and write. Along the way, he published other works but kept returning to Prithipal. "There were times I wanted to give up," he admits. "It was exhausting, emotionally and logistically. I couldn't let it go."

Much of the difficulty came from the silence around the murder. Police officers from the time refused to speak, lawyers brushed him off, and former students of PAU denied knowledge or insisted on anonymity. "Even players from the 1968 Olympic team, still alive, wouldn't say more than: 'Yes, he was a good player.' I wanted insights into the man but they just weren't forthcoming."

Misra followed leads across Punjab, Canada, and the United States – some ending in dead ends, others in revelations. In Montreal, during an off-the-record conversation, he came face-to-face with a man who, as Misra recalls, "first checked me out, asking why I was still pursuing this," before admitting he had been part of the group that planned the assassination. "From the way he spoke, I sensed he was close to the core group. I didn't press with provocative questions, but then he calmly said, 'Yes, I was part of the group that killed him. We believed he was against the students and had to be taught a lesson.' There was no regret in his voice. He even added, 'Even if he stood before me today, I'd shoot him again'."

After six years of chasing leads, Misra is unsure if he has found closure. "There are still multiple versions of events. Even now people call me saying, 'You missed this detail.' But at some point, you have to take the best available version and write it. Otherwise, you'll never finish."

IN DEFENCE OF INDIAN YOUTH

HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon
(Writer, comedian)

TWO weeks back, youth in Nepal took down their government through massive protests that originated on social media. According to reports, they even held important discussions on the next President on Discord! Whatever you think of the movement, it does take spheres of steel to do it. In Indonesia, protestors set fire to the Parliament building to protest illegal spending by authorities.

In fact, if you look around – all the countries around us are going through a revolution of sorts. In Bangladesh, the people overthrew the government a few months back. In Sri Lanka, the Rajapaksha government was overthrown in 2022. And Pakistan? Well, they have to watch their team lose to India thrice in the span of a month – that is generational trauma, so we shall keep them out of this. But all around us, the youth are up in arms against the system.

This led me to find sarcastic social media posts questioning the apparent lethargy of Indian youth. Incendiary posts that questioned where our nation was headed. Of how they are comfortable in their homes and on their smartphones. Memes about youth of other countries revolting, while Indian youth were busy sharing memes. A meta-meme, if you know what I meme!

But here's my defence of Indian youth. It's common for older people to judge those younger than them. It's a misapprehension that all human beings nurture. We think we are wiser than those younger than us because we have lived for more years on earth. But that's a rather silly concept. Humans have become apex creatures on earth because every generation is smarter than those that came before them. This is true of the entire world – every generation is smarter, and (surprisingly) kinder than the previous one. If you want proof, just look at the different movements that have taken place over the years. About a hundred years ago, we overthrew kingdoms and created governments run by people. Then, human rights came in. Then came women's rights. Then came animal rights. Then came LGBTQ rights. Every generation expands our understanding of empathy.

It's the fallacy of wisdom that makes us assume we know better than those younger than us. But we just have to look at our parents to notice how obsolete we get as time passes. Which brings me to Indian youth. They are stuck between age-old civilisations and AI innovations. Every generation before them had to deal with crises. Religious riots and nuclear sanctions. Before that, the Emergency and wars. Before that, the Freedom movement.

Today's Indian youth might be the first generation that can pursue their dreams without the fear of the nation crumbling in front of them. On top of that, everything they like is snatched away from them. They liked video games, and PUBG got banned. They got over their insecurities and put themselves out in public through TikTok – but even that got banned. They overcame smoking by switching to vapes – and those got banned. Three years of their peak years were snatched away by Covid-19.

But as a man who's no longer young, I still believe in the youth of India. Maybe Indian revolutions don't happen over petro-bombs, but rather through hashtags and reels. Indian youth revolt against arranged marriage by using dating apps. Against bureaucracy by founding startups. Against strict politicians by making memes. The youth in India have always stood up when it mattered – whether it was the Great Indian Revolt, the freedom movement, or the Emergency. Maybe they're gathering evidence, collecting memes, and making reels. For now, I'd like to give Indian youth the benefit of pout!

Sriimurali

to star in ambitious period action drama directed by Puneeth Rudranag

Post-Bagheera, the actor is set to explore a 500-year-old tale with a debutant director, to be backed by Jayaram Devasamudra for a larger-than-life canvas

A SHARADHAA

FOLLOWING the success of his 2024 fim, Bagheera, actor Sriimurali has been quietly plotting his next big move. The latest buzz is that the actor is all set to headline a high-profile project directed by Puneeth Rudranag. While the latter is known for his acting stints in various films, including Bagheera and the recent Ekka, as well as his collaboration with Prashanth Neel on KGF 1, the yet-to-be-titled film marks his directorial debut.

According to sources close to the team, Puneeth Rudranag, who has known Sriimurali for years, has developed a story that aligns perfectly with the actor's ambitions. The film is a periodic action drama set 500 years in the past, a genre and scale Sriimurali has never explored before. Insiders reveal that both actor and director have been quietly refining the script and concept, with Sriimurali experimenting with a new look tailored to the historical setting. The project is backed by Jayaram Devasamudra under the Suram Movies banner, promising a production of ambitious scale and cinematic grandeur. Sanketh (Mys) is taking care of the cinematography of the film, while Amar is leading the art department. Nirmal Kumar, who handled the visual effects for Salaar, will also be collaborating on this venture. The makers are yet to finalise the music director and the principal cast.

Pre-production is reportedly in full swing, with filming expected to kick off in November, before which an official announcement is said to be made. Sriimurali is also currently working on Paraak and is collaborating with People Media Factory.

THE ACTOR, WHO IS AWAITING THE THEATRICAL RELEASE OF PREM'S KD, IS ALREADY GEARING UP FOR HIS NEXT PROJECT

Dhruva Sarja's next move, a fresh, rooted drama with director Rajguru

Rajguru

Dhruva Sarja

A SHARADHAA

DHRUVA Sarja, who has completed filming for Prem's KD and is awaiting its release, is now under the spotlight as speculation grows around his next move. We had previously reported that Dhruva is likely to collaborate with director Rajguru B of Kerebete fame.

According to sources, this collaboration is more than just talk, and the project has reportedly been locked. Dhruva, known for carefully curating his roles, has been seeking a makeover in terms of the subject, his character, and the overall tone of the film. Rajguru has reportedly tailored a story that aligns perfectly with this vision. Rajguru, who made an impressive debut with Kerebete — a film rooted in the lives of coastal fishermen — is set to once again bring his signature storytelling while adding a fresh narrative spin to Dhruva's character.

The makers are said to be aiming for a lavish canvas, with Manish Shah backing the project, which is expected to be released in Kannada and a few other languages. Pre-production is currently underway, and Dhruva is preparing to unveil a striking new look for the role.

An official announcement is expected in October, possibly around Dhruva Sarja's birthday. If timelines hold, the filming could commence in November, with the team aiming for a swift yet grand execution.

For Dhruva, this project could be the latest addition to an already strong line-up. He is also linked to collaborations with director-producer Raghavendra Hegde and banners such as People Media Factory, and is carefully weighing in the right subjects before confirming his choices. But for now, all eyes are on Rajguru's ambitious new drama, which will mark the maiden collaboration between him and Dhruva.

Sudeep applauds Elumale, calls it a worthy watch

CE FEATURES

SUDEEP, who is currently busy shooting for Mark, and is gearing up for the reality show, Bigg Boss Kannada season 11, took time to watch debutant director Punit Rangaswamy's Elumale. Produced by Tharun Sudhir and Atlanta Nagendra, the film stars Raanna and newcomer Priyanka Achar in lead roles.

Taking to social media, Sudeep praised the film's craft, saying it is "worth watching." He wrote, "Superb narration, crisp writing and excellent scripting combine to make Elumale worth watching. Director Punit Rangaswamy keeps the momentum from first frame to last. The film never loses its grip on the narrative or its intensity. He also praised D Imman's music, saying it "becomes a character by itself." The actor was equally impressed with the performances, noting that Raanna "fully inhabits Harish and delivers a flawless performance," while Priyanka Achar is "subtle and luminous as Chinni and leaves an impact." He also congratulated Tharun Sudhir on making a promising debut as a producer.

Elumale, which has been enjoying a good run at the box office post its release, blends gripping storytelling with strong characters. Apart from Raanna and Priyanka, the film has a supporting cast featuring Kishore in a standout role, Jagapathi Babu in a key part, and appearances by Rakesh Maiya and Jagappa, among others. The film has cinematography by Advaitha Gurumurthy. With positive word-of-mouth and strong appreciation from industry insiders, the makers have confirmed that Elumale will soon be released in Tamil and Telugu, with more details expected from the production house shortly.

A still from the film

Pop culture politics

NAMRATA JOSHI

IN 2017, Swedish-Egyptian filmmaker Tarik Saleh came up with The Nile Hilton Incident, which won the World Cinema Grand Jury Prize: Dramatic at the Sundance Film Festival but was banned in Egypt for its portrayal of corruption in the country's police in the months leading up to the 2011 Revolution. His 2022 film Boy from Heaven portrayed the power struggles in the country's religious establishment and its unholy alliance with the state. It won him the best screenplay award at the Cannes Film Festival.

Saleh ruffles the feathers of Egypt's political establishment yet again with the third thriller, and the final instalment of his Cairo trilogy, Eagles of the Republic, which premiered in the competition lineup of the Cannes Film Festival in May and also played recently at Toronto and Busan. The Egyptian-Arabic language, Sweden-France-Denmark-Finland-Germany co-production has been selected as the Swedish entry for the Best International Feature Film at the Oscars 2026.

After the police and church, Saleh casts a fictional look at the state's abuse of power when it comes to the film industry and, in the process, critiques and brings down the political class, military dictatorship, and megalomaniac leadership. George Fahmy (Fares Fares), the country's leading film star, is forced to work in a propaganda film, a biopic celebrating President Abdel Fattah el-Sisi (the one real name in a sea of fictional characters). The process of shooting the film takes him deep into the corridors of power, close to the many secret machinations and all-pervasive espionage, co-option, corruption, and crime, and even an affair with Suzanne (Zineb Triki), the wife of the general heading the production. Keeping a watchful eye on him all the way is the official in charge, Dr Mansour (Amr Waked). The underproduction biopic exposes him to dangers he wouldn't have ever imagined he'd have to confront in life, as the twists and turns of the plot lead him (and the audience) on to a major conspiracy.

Saleh adds doses of human drama to the thriller as Fahmy struggles with the conflict between what he truly believes in and what he is forced to do. "I will not work for the regime. Art is sacred to me," he might say initially, but he has to compromise as opposed to his personal integrity. The fame that should ideally make him powerful leaves him vulnerable. The film rings a universal bell when it comes to exploring this intersection between authoritarianism and forced co-option and exploitation of pop culture in politics.

Saleh builds the world authentically with the production designer Roger Rosenberg, art director Sila Karakaya, and cinematographer Pierre Aim lending a great helping hand. There are some standout sequences like the pivotal military parade leading on to assassination. Another one, of the masses greeting El-Sisi at the railway station, has a sprawling, epic element to it. The film is also a celebration of Egyptian cinema with the studios, star system, ideas of freedom of expression, and censorship, paralleling our own industry concerns. The references to certain films and filmmakers, Beau Travail, Claire Denis, are also great fun.

However, the many subplots, about affairs and murders, can get distracting, slacken the narrative, and turn the screenplay a tad messy. The writing could have been done with another revision and some tightening. Eagles of the Republic is a sturdy and enjoyable mainstream thriller. It might sport the right ideology at heart, but one that doesn't cut deep enough. It skims the surface when it comes to the problematic equation between cinema and the political establishment. Stylish indeed, but leaves one asking for more substance.

The big reason for the film's appeal, however, is a solid ensemble, especially the ace performance from Fares Fares. With a combination of swag and sincerity, fun and flair, he makes his Fahmy an enigmatic and attractive matinee idol (at times seeming like a throwback to the charismatic Egyptian icon Omar Sharif) and wins the audience's empathy as he tries to fight the very system and the regime that he must serve.
